BUSINESS GOOD AND HOPES FOR WINTER BRIGHT, SURVEY SHOWS

Answers to 50,000 Questionnaires Compiled for Manufacturers Now Meeting in St. Louis.

MORE PRODUCTION AND SALES INCREASE

Fewer Unemployed—Less Than One Per Cent of the Answers Report Any Strike Troubles.

The answer to "how's business," sent in 50,000 questionnaires to 30 major industries in every section of the country, was announced today by the National Association of Manufacturers, which began a three-day convention at Hotel Statler.

The answer is: Business is good, better than last autumn; prospects for winter prosperity are good; production has increased and sales have kept pace. There is less unemployment. Wages are high and what is most dead to the heart of the manufacturer, less than 1 per cent of the answers report any strike troubles.

The association is the mouthpiece of 30,000 industries in the country. Its St. Louis meeting, the first outside of New York in 15 years, is being attended by about 1000 employers of labor.

A warning against "exterior influences" that are creating vexatious "disturbances in industry" was the keynote of the address of the President of the association, delivered at the opening session. He scolded the "unintelligent, unfeeling meddling, preachers" were told to quit meddling on the social order and return to their proper place in the home, and labor unions were advised that management of business was none of their business.

A full account of Edgerton's address will be found on page 13 of this edition.

Open Shop Gains Reported.

At its afternoon session the association reported a gain for the open shop until it prevails generally in American industry, with the exception of a few key industries. It reckoned the numerical strength of union labor as about 20 per cent of the potentially possible organization, and declared that only 10 per cent of American labor now is organized in closed shops.

The closed shop, it was reported by the association's Open Shop Committee, has gained only in the coal and steel and garment industries, and has been decreased in printing, railroads and bituminous coal mining.

The association's business survey covers the last three weeks. More than 15,000 answers to questions were compiled and the results announced as follows:

As to present trade conditions, 14 per cent of all those replying rated them favorable in these varying degrees: Excellent, 18 per cent; good, 43 per cent; fair, 33 per cent. Only six per cent reported them poor.

Winter Trade Outlook.

The outlook for winter trade was also reported favorable by 85 per cent, of whom 13 per cent reported it as excellent; 54 per cent, good; and 38 per cent, fair. It was viewed as poor and five per cent.

An improvement over last fall's business was noted by 56 per cent. While no change was reported by 11 per cent, and a falling off by 18 per cent.

A healthy movement of goods to the consumer was indicated by the average report of stocks on hand, of which 23 per cent reported a low; 69 per cent, normal; and 8 per cent, reporting overstocked conditions.

There is more employment than last fall, 36 per cent reporting an increase, for the most part small, with only 8 per cent reporting decrease, also small. In the metal supply of labor was reported generally adequate, only 9 per cent reporting a shortage of skilled workmen, and 2 per cent a lack of unskilled labor. Wages also were reported increases, of which 7 per cent were large. Decreases were reported by 17 per cent, mostly small reductions.

Increased Production.

Coincident with the increase in employment and wages, an increase in production over last fall was reported by 33 per cent, while 36 per cent noted a decrease. The volume of sales also increased, 23 per cent reporting an increase.

5000 See Liquor Raid at Elks Club in New York

Nine Kegs of Alleged Beer Seized and Driver of Wagon, in Which It Had Just Been Delivered, Arrested.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Police raided the basement of the Elks Club in West Forty-third street today and seized nine kegs of alleged beer and arrested the driver of a wagon in which the beverage had just been delivered to the club.

More than 5000 persons gathered outside of the club while the alleged beer was being removed. The club is one of the principal headquarters of the Elks in this city.

Robert Burns of Brooklyn was the driver arrested. He was charged with illegally transporting liquor.

10 NAVY AIRPLANES SMASHED BY GALE

Seven Others Fastened in Chesapeake Bay Damaged When Battered at Moorings.

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Ten United States navy seaplanes were battered into shapeless heaps and seven were less seriously damaged yesterday, when, under the buffeting of a southwest gale, they dragged with them 475-pound anchors or broke loose and piled up along several miles of sea wall and beach at Solers Point, near the mouth of the Patuxent River.

Six other machines safely rode the storm.

The planes were a double detachment from Hampton Roads—10 attached to scouting squadron VS-1—six to torpedo squadron VT-1—the seventeenth machine was a staff plane. All had been at anchor off the point since last Friday, when they were brought here to take part in an aerial pageant in connection with the Schneider seaplane trophy race at Bay Shore Park.

One Plane Still Missing.

One of three planes anchored in the Chesapeake off Bay Shore also broke from moorings and drifted into the bay. It had not been located this morning. None of the machines were occupied when they crashed.

Commander T. G. Elyson, in charge of one seaplane squadron, said that seven of the ships would be repaired and flown back to Hampton Roads. He believed that the motors of the other 10 could be salvaged.

The planes had been in service only about two months, and comprised about one-sixth of the navy's craft of their particular class.

Exclusive of the value of the motors, the loss is about $25,000 per plane.

The moorings for the craft had been chosen by Commander Elyson and Lieutenant Commander G. A. Smith, commanding the second squadron, as the most suitable to protect the planes from a southwest storm, warnings of which had been received from Washington. When the gale blew up out of the southwest, however, the expected safe anchorage was turned into an open roadstead.

Planes Drag Anchors.

One by one the planes either picked up their enormous anchors and drifted to destruction or chafed through three-inch ropes for a swifter journey to the rocks.

Boats sent out from the seaplane tender Sandpiper were unable to make headway in the rough water.

DINES' WEDDING POSTPONED

Denver Clubman Was to Have Married Yesterday.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 26.—The marriage of Courtland S. Dines, wealthy Denver clubman, to Helen Gibson of Denver, has been postponed until Dines gets his affairs into shape. This was his statement today in explaining why the nuptials, set for yesterday, were not carried out. He declared he first intended to wed last Saturday and then delayed one day, later deciding to put off the marriage indefinitely.

Dines was shot and seriously wounded on New York road, 19, in his Hollywood apartment, where he was entertaining Mabel Normand and Edna Purviance, motion picture actresses. H. A. Greer, Miss Normand's chauffeur, was tried for the shooting, but was acquitted.

FASCISM BEGINS AT HOME

PARMA, Italy, Oct. 26.—Premier Mussolini's son, Benito, was seen yesterday in the Fascist party, it develops, but also at least to some extent with his own family circles.

His daughter, Edda, who won some fame last summer by rescuing a drowning bather at Cattolica, recently telegraphed Mussolini asking for permission to accompany friends on a motor trip in connection with the third anniversary celebration of the Fascist march on Rome. Receiving no reply, she was urged by her friends to "come along, anyway," but she answered proudly: "I am a disciplined Fascist. Without permission from my father I refuse to move."

AUTO DRIVER HELD ON HOMICIDE CHARGE

Machine of William M. Trenholm Killed Man Examining Flat Tire.

William M. Trenholm of 2218A Menard street, driver of an automobile which ran down and killed another motorist, who had stopped to examine a flat tire, Saturday evening, was held by a Coroner's jury for homicide, today, after testimony had been presented that Trenholm was intoxicated.

The verdict was returned at the inquest into the death of William Morehead, 20 years old, of 139 S. George street, who had halted his car at Eighteenth and Victor streets, and was in the act of examining a rear tire when struck. He died on the way to the City Hospital.

Trenholm was arrested and taken to City Hospital, where physicians said he had been drinking. At the inquest today Trenholm did not take the stand, the prisoner's witness being Morehead's companion, Emory Heritaka of 2373 Seventh boulevard.

Heritaka said he had remained in the automobile when Morehead got out, and a moment later he heard the crash. He said he sprang out of the car and called to the other driver, who had stopped but would not answer him. When the driver got out, Heritaka approached him, he testified, and smelled liquor on his breath. He said Trenholm was staggering and appeared to be intoxicated.

Trenholm was held for the grand jury in $10,000 bond.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS THROUGH AS MEMBER DIES IN HIS SEAT

Francois Lamouret, One of World's Finest Horn Players, Succumbs at Paris Concert.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 26.—Francois Lamouret, first horn player of the famous Lamoureux Orchestra, died after playing the solo passage in Vincent D'Indy's "Sage-fleurie" at a concert last evening. He slipped lifeless from his chair to the floor.

The conductor, Paul Paray, reassured the audience, telling them Lamouret had merely fainted, but the members of the orchestra had the courage to play through the remainder of the program, knowing their comrade lay dead in the ante-room.

It was remarked that the last selection, Wagner's wonderful musical setting of the death of Isolde, was played with unusual fervor. Lamouret, although comparatively young, was regarded as the finest horn player in France, and one of the finest in the world.

U. S. SUPREME COURT TO HEAR GOLTRA BARGE CASE

Jurisdiction in Controversy Between Federal Government and St. Louis Accepted by Tribunal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Jurisdiction in the controversy between the Federal barge line and Edward F. Goltra, former Democratic National Committee man from Missouri, over a fleet of barges and towboats, was accepted today by the United States Supreme Court in issuing a writ of certiorari petitioned for by Goltra.

The writ ordered certification of the record from the Court of Appeals, which decided against Goltra last summer, for a hearing in the Supreme Court.

The case has been pending in Federal courts in one form or another since the Government canceled Goltra's lease and seized the fleet in 1923. Pending decision, Goltra retains possession of the fleet under order of Federal Judge Paris, whereby it was restored to him, upon condition that it be put into service and be kept there.

AMERICAN FLYER FIRST TO START IN SEAPLANE RACE

Lieut. Doolittle in Curtiss Racer Making Better Than 240 Miles Per Hour Is Followed by British Pilot.

ITALIAN ENTRY IS WITHDRAWN

Engine Trouble Prevents Macchi Flying Boat From Crossing Line in Schneider Cup Contest.

BAY SHORE PARK, BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Lieut. James H. Doolittle, driving the United States army Curtiss racer which won the Pulitzer trophy, was first away this afternoon in the international Jacques Schneider trophy seaplane races and on his first lap made 223.15 miles an hour. Doolittle increased his speed in the second lap, turning in 228.249 as an average for both laps.

Captain Herbert Broad in the Gloster-Napier III, England's only surviving entry, made his first lap in 194.275 miles an hour.

Italy's No. 8 Macchi flying boat, which was to have been piloted by Riccardo Morelli, was backed into the hangar a few minutes before it was due to take off and Mario Castoldi, its designer, said engine trouble would prevent its entry.

Great Britain's challenger was reduced to one this morning when Pilot Bert Hinkler, in Britain's reserve plane, a Gloster Napier III, wrecked through his pontoon in landing on Chesapeake Bay at the start of his third attempt to qualify his plane for the international race this afternoon.

The Gloster was towed to her hangar with its pontoon loose, and its wing bent, and his propeller blades in the water. The pilot, brought in by a boat from the U. S. S. Shawmut, was not hurt. He said he found the surface upon landing rougher than he expected.

Pontoon Buckled.

Hubert Broad's Gloster is the only one of three seaplanes brought to this country by Great Britain for the Schneider cup race to escape misfortune. The supermarine Napier S-4, in the cockpit of which England's fondest cup hopes rode, crashed last Friday with Capt. Henry C. Biard. Two previous attempts by Pilot Hinkler to qualify the reserve Gloster had failed.

The planes will fly 350 kilometers, seven laps around a 50-kilometer triangular course over Chesapeake Bay. The course will be marked during the race by pylons and United States subschasers.

Repeal of the occupational tax on taxicabs, of the 5 per cent levy on passenger cars, and of the tax on parts, was urged by the National Association of Taxicab Owners.

FRENCH DELEGATES TELL HOW SMOOTH PUT FEET ON TABLE

Action Not as Striking as Fascist Salute, but Still Is Symbolic, Says Newspaper.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 26.—With the French Debt Commission back from Washington they are telling in Paris a story of how Senator Reed Smoot of the American Commission put his feet on the table as soon as its use for the deliberations was over.

This gesture must not be taken as a suggestion of bad manners, says L'Ouvre, "but as marking the end of the conference. The action may not be as striking as the Fascist salute, but still it is pleasant, easy, large and symbolic in a way that can be felt intuitively rather than explained. To place a foot on the table is a way of intimating that you have nothing else to put there and so discussion is closed. It is as simple as a handshake as the binding of a bargain.

"However, there is no doubt that feet on the table will be it, this year. We French don't like the Americans to the point of handing over to them all the money the Germans are not paying us, but we are snobs enough to know that although it may be bad form in France to put your elbows on the table, it must be chic to put your feet there because America does it."

WORLD COURT CONVENES IN EXTRAORDINARY SESSION

The British Minister, Sir Charles Marling, and the Turkish Charge d'Affaires, Mehmed Esad Bey, were present. Sir Douglas Hogg, British Attorney-General, and Sir Cecil Hurst, represented the London Government, but the seats allocated for the Turkish representatives were unoccupied. The Ankara Government, in a telegram, expressed high esteem and deference for the international court, but declared it saw no reason to be represented.

FUR GARTERS NEW PARIS FAD

Shoulder Neckline Also Appears as a Feminine Fancy.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Fur garters are the latest fad of the Parisienne. Short skirts made them fashionable. Dressmakers, quick to ride the crest of the wave, are beginning to design them. Fur articles will be visible when the skirt itself falls a little below the knees.

Another feminine fancy noticed this fall is the shoulder necklace. Smart women now wear long strands of pearls hanging down their backs. Some wear double ones, adorning both back and front. Rue de la Paix jewelers are turning out special designs for the purpose.

$37,500 AWARDED IN WILDA BENNETT ALIENATION ACTION

Mrs. Katherine Frey Wins Her Suit Against Actress in Sealed Verdict Opened Today.

CASE WENT TO JURY FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Both Women in Courtroom at Mineola, L. I., During the Seven-Day Hearing of $100,000 Cause.

By the Associated Press.
MINNEOLA, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Mrs. Katherine Frey of Louisville, Ky., today won a jury verdict for $37,500 against Wilda Bennett, musical comedy actress, for alienating the affections of the plaintiff's husband, Charles C. Frey, race horse owner and sportsman.

The case was given to the jury in Supreme Court Friday afternoon and a sealed verdict was returned late Friday night. The verdict was read when court convened this morning. The case was tried before Supreme Court Justice Fisher.

Mrs. Frey sued for $100,000. The trial lasted almost a week.

Miss Bennett and Frey sat in the courtroom, as Mrs. Frey, on the witness stand, accused the actress of stealing the affections of her husband.

Actress Will Appeal.

Miss Bennett entered the courtroom on the arm of Frey a few minutes before the verdict was opened and Mrs. Frey entered just as the verdict was being read.

William J. Fallon, counsel for Miss Bennett, immediately announced that he would appeal. His motion to set aside the verdict as being contrary to the weight of evidence was denied. Fallon then asked permission to argue a similar motion Wednesday, which Justice Fisher granted.

Miss Bennett smiled when the verdict was read.

"Verdict or no verdict, I know I am all right. Of course, I do not intend to pay it," she said.

Frey, who sat beside the actress, said: "There will be an appeal. Don't worry about that."

Mrs. Frey said she was too happy to talk. "I feel that my suffering has been somewhat allayed," she said. "The verdict shows that these things cannot go on unchecked in New York."

Considerable testimony was taken on the question whether Mrs. Frey's husband, Charles C. Frey, wealthy clubman and turf follower, had been "pursued and won" by the actress, as charged by Mrs. Frey, or whether he had, as he testified, ceased to love his wife before he met Miss Bennett in 1923. Breakfast parties at which Frey was said to have attended, clad only in purple silk pajamas, and entertainment by him of women in his apartment, were prominent features of the testimony.

Counsel for Mrs. Frey referred to Miss Bennett as "a Broadway girl who saw what she wanted and got it," Frey swore that it was he who had pursued and won her.

Justice Fisher, in charging the jury, said that damages could be awarded only if the jury found that the actress had, indeed, alienated the affections of Frey from his wife.

YOUNG WOMAN HELPS TO ROB TAXICAB CHAUFFEUR

Directs Driver to Spot Where He Is Robbed by Man of Money and Watch.

A young woman—blonde, hobbled and not unattractive, as described by Walter Keller, Red Top taxicab driver—emerged from Hotel Statler just before last midnight and boarded Keller's cab.

"To Prairie and Lucky," she ordered and Keller obeyed. As that corner she told him to drive west a half block. "To the house next the 'umber yard.' There she said. Wait a minute while I get some money from my uncle."

Keller waited. Presently she emerged from the doorway with a middle aged man. The man had a revolver with which he persuaded Keller to surrender $4.99 and his taxicab. The man took the wheel and drove off with the young woman as passenger.

Keller told a policeman that the woman was about 25 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall. She wore a dainty black hat and a stylish cloak of light material, he said.

250-Pound Safe Stolen.

A 250-pound safe was gone when the manager of the City Oil Filling Station, 1605 North Twenty-fifth street, opened his doors today. There was nothing in it but a few papers of no value.

MISSSES MILLIONS, DIES IN POVERTY

MRS. LILLIAN N. DUKE

SERVICES FROM UNDERTAKER CHAPEL FOR MRS. LILLIAN DUKE

Sister of Divorced Wife of Late Tobacco Magnate Said to Have Claimed Body.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, who once as wife of the late James B. Duke, millionaire tobacco king, was mistress of one of America's greatest fortunes, will be buried today from an undertaker's chapel.

If the efforts for secrecy of those in charge are successful, the funeral will be in fitting accord with the virtual seclusion that marked the last years of the woman who died in poverty Saturday night in the little studio apartment at 125 West Eighty-eight street, where she had struggled to support herself as a music teacher. She was divorced by Duke 20 years ago.

Although the report could not be corroborated, it was said that a Mrs. Emma Gomez, Mrs. Duke's sister, had claimed the body and provided for a funeral.

CHOW-DOGS SPONSOR COUPLE AT WEDDING

Fung Chow Best Man for G. A. Stevens and Ho Lung Attends Bride.

The couples who go to Clayton to be married are of all sorts, nervous, nonchalant, frivolous, solemn, rich and poor, but not until today was a couple so playful as to bring along a pair of dogs to act as "best man" and "bridesmaid."

Justice of the Peace Werremeyer was in his chambers when a couple arrived and identified themselves as Glenn A. Stevens, 35 years old, of New York City, and Lillie Erdman, 35, of Chicago. They were accompanied by a friend, Mrs. Fern Ashwell of St. Louis, and two Chinese chow dogs.

Werremeyer held the dogs on his knees while the couple went under the license. On their return, Miss Erdman introduced Werremeyer to the one on the left knee, Fung Chow, and the one on the right, Ho Lung, who were nominated by her for best man and bridesmaid, respectively. The Judge thought the proceeding a bit unusual, but could recall no law against it, so went through the ceremony, with the dogs supporting the principals.

"They must have been wealthy," the Judge told reporters afterward. He based this surmise on their stylish dress and the $13 top which Stevens handed Werremeyer. The regular fee is only $3.

GIRL SAVES 2. DIES OF BURNS

Extinguishes Flames in Clothing of Small Children.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 26.—In saving the lives of her 3-year-old sister, Virginia, and her 1-year-old brother, Clarence, Mary Irene King, 16 years old, suffered fatal burns at her home in Elwood, near here, yesterday. The father was ill in an upstairs room and the mother had gone to a neighbor.

The children were huddled about a stove when Irene poured a cup of kerosene and threw it into the stove and the sheet of flame which burst out set fire to their clothing. Mary, heedless of her own danger, seized the smaller children and succeeded in smothering the fire, but not until she herself was enveloped in flames. Rather than alarm her sick father, she ran from the house toward the next door neighbor.

The homes are separated by a high wire fence and the little girl was unable to get through it. She died several hours later in a St. Joseph hospital.

BALKAN FIGHT CONTINUES AS LEAGUE TAKES UP DISPUTE

Uneasiness Felt at Session in Paris When Bulgaria and Greece Decline to Order Troop Withdrawal.

GREEK ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON BORDER

Sofia Sends Note to League Blaming Athens for Conflict and Refusing to Negotiate Directly.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 26.—The extraordinary sitting of the League of Nations council, called to consider the Greek-Bulgarian conflict, was opened here at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

The fact that apparently neither Bulgaria nor Greece thus far has obeyed the injunction of M. Briand as president of the council, to withdraw her troops behind her frontier, caused considerable uneasiness in League circles.

The new Bulgarian note to the League emphatically denies the Greek version as to the origin of and responsibility for the conflict.

The note states that the Bulgarians proposed the appointment of a commission of inquiry at the outset but that the Greek government failed to reply and dispatched considerable hostile forces into Bulgarian territory.

"The invasion was accompanied," says the note, "by veritable acts of war, the artillery, infantry and tanks all firing on the defenseless population."

No Direct Negotiations.

In conclusion the note states that, considering the fact that Greek troops are still occupying Bulgarian territory, the League of Nations is unable to enter into direct negotiations with Athens.

League officials said the exact military situation was obscure. They believe the solution of the conflict may require several days, as both the Bulgarian and Greek representatives who are to appear before the council, will probably desire to confer frequently with Sofia and Athens before committing their governments.

Popoace in Flight.

The Greeks were reported to be throwing shells into various parts of the troubled district, while the Bulgarians were declared to be carrying out sniping operations against the Greeks.

There still continued the excited rush of the armed populace in the war torn areas to make their escape from shells and bullets.

Balkan States Central.

The fact that Romania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, which will remain neutral in the conflict has created a feeling of satisfaction here. Czechoslovakia and Rumania already have announced their neutrality, and the League of Nations has ordered that an invasion of Yugoslavia by the belligerents be prevented.

One feature of the situation which is causing some misgivings is a report that Bulgarian leaders opposed to the Bulgarian Government have arrived at the frontier at Sarabrod with the purpose of harassing the Government while it has its hands full in dealing with the Greeks.

Aristide Briand, president of the League Council, and Austin Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary are ready to aid in putting Europe's house in order and keeping it peace-ful.

In the famous Clock Hall of the French Foreign Office, it is their purpose to make it plain to the Balkan states through the League of Nations that war moves are out of fashion.

At the session of the council French Premier Painleve and Chamberlain will have as co-partners in ending the strife Senator Scialoja of Italy, A. France Meilo Franco of Brazil, Bashi Iahli of Japan, Count Quisones de Leon of Spain, M. Unden of Sweden, Alberto N. Guani of Uruguay and M. Vereska of Czechoslovakia.

Foreign Minister Briand intended to attend the council meeting for France, but he suffered a violent nose bleed today and Painleve will attend in his stead.

Greece's Promise to Council.

Hope that the council can regulate the Greco-Bulgarian outbreak is to be found in the fact that both Bulgaria and Greece have expressed their willingness to abide by the council's decision, and that Greece by a formal note to the League of Nations yesterday virtually agreed to withdraw her troops from the frontier.

ONLY 20 PER CENT OF GIRLS QUIT SCHOOL TO WORK

70 Pct. Left Classes in Dis-

ference Today Says.

OTHER REPORTS BASED ON SURVEY

Marriage Records Show 514 Minors, Including Four Girls of 14, Got Licenses
in Three Months.

Only 20 per cent of a group of St. Louis girls who dropped out of high school before reaching the end of the eighth grade did so for economic reasons. It was reported to the opening session today of the conference on Our Community and Its Youth, at the City Club. Seventy per cent quit in disgust because of demotion or frustration, or suspension.

This was one of a group of 11 reports on surveys made for the conference during the past year, aiming to determine factors bearing on juvenile delinquency in St.
Louis. Other reports placed the major blame for delinquency on the failure of parents, absolved schools of blame, told of the regression of commercialized vice and gave observations on the results of early marriages.

Participating in the conference were 57 organizations, ranging from the Community Council and numerous other social service groups to the civic clubs, Chamber of Commerce and welfare departments of industries.

Miss Alma Fletcher of the Board of Education made the report on children dropping out of school.
There were 255 girls in the group
she studied mentioned above. Only 47 of these, she said, quit their studies because of bad company.
The rest quit because they hated their books and home study. The percentage of those who quit for economic necessity was in contrast with the common supposition.
There are 1875 working boys and girls attending the continuation schools as a part-time means of supplementing their education. Of these, Miss Fletcher said, 1185 have quit as far as the sixth and seventh grades, but only 201 have reached the eighth grade. Benefits of home-making courses and manual arts have not been extended to 275 of these. "In fact," said Miss Fletcher, "they have had no executory courses or classes in occupations."

are in danger of adding to the army of restless and discontented workers whose problems make up a large part of the so-called 'latent problem' of the day. A study show 110 of the girls in these schools spend their leisure time with their friends from two to five times a week.

Only one of these girls reported that she goes to prayer meetings; another goes to choir practice,
and to the library, one to the Y. W.
C. A. and still another embroiders for her hope chest. Mothers receive the help of 23 of these girls at home, while 18 others help in carrying for babies.

Question of Reading.
Another group of 110 girls was asked to list their favorite books.
"Black Beauty" was the most popular, being first choice of 27. "Alice in Wonderland" was second, ranking in the affections of 21, but "Little Women" was only one behind
it. The Green, Red and Blue books ranked next. Six girls said they liked the old-style 10-cent novels.

Records of the marriage license office for the three months from March 15 to June 15 last were examined by Miss Bertha B. Howell, secretary director of the Community Council, to determine the extent of child marriage here. During that time 514 persons under 21 years of age received licenses. Among them were four girls of 14, who married

ADVERTISEMENTS

If I were a Taxi-driver

I'd CARRY a long-range flashlight with me on every trip after dark. To find house-numbers, to locate street-signs in unfamiliar districts; to make change
when the fare paid his bill.

In case of engine trouble or a blowout, my flashlight would be a life-saver. I'd use it to see how much gas is in the tank, without danger of fire.

Oh, I'd have hundreds of coins for a good flashlight.
And I mean by "good flashlight" is the one called
"Eveready."

Wife and Actress in Courtroom At Hearing of Alienation Suit

WILDA BENNETT.

respectively, a man of 36, a youth of 19 and two boys of 16.
To determine the success of youthful marriages, an effort was made to interview all the participants in 26 weddings in a one-month period. A social worker found that 15 couples were living in apparent happiness, including two which were buying 4-room houses. One couple had separated, one child wife had gone to court
to make her husband support her, but nine of the couples could not be found.

Consent of parents to marriage of all persons under 21 is necessary in Missouri and 15 is the minimum age for girls, but Miss Howell found that inadequate proof of age is required. She learned also that many who should be punished for contributing to delinquency for a statutory crime frequently escape prosecution under a law providing that a girl about to become a mother may marry with the consent of the Circuit Court.

Reports on Dance Halls.

There is no evidence that dance halls are a very serious cause of delinquency here, it was reported by Charles E. Miner, executive secretary of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association. He found as many short skirts and as much indecent dancing (though this was rare) on the dance floors of hotels and in other pretentious dancing places as in the cheap halls.

Parental incompetency was blamed for the delinquency of 92 per cent of a group of 102 outstanding cases analyzed by a group of social workers. It was reported by Dr. Walter Bodenhafer, professor of sociology of Washington University.

Mrs. M. M. Hart of the Board of Religious Organizations pointed out that recently it was determined most drug stores and news stands
here were selling periodicals regarded by the board as objectionable. Distribution of these publications in the schools is limited, she said, because of the efforts of principals.

Executive Secretary Miner of the hygiene association reported on commercialized vice, stating that its nature here is less dangerous than in other cities.

Social agencies deplore the lack of a food-handlers' law or ordinance. Mrs. Olive C. Cadbury, former assistant director of the Community Council, stated in a discussion of working conditions. Persons being treated for disease may be employed at food factories not specifically covered by the State laws regarding the health of workers, she said, and only in bakeries

COMMISSION ON TRANSIT PROBLEM, ALDERMANIC PLAN

Committee, After Study of System in Other Cities, States Facilities Here
Compare Favorably.

Appointment of a Transit Commission to expedite the construction and operation of subways and other rapid transportation facilities here was recommended to the Board of Aldermen today by the Aldermanic Rapid Transit Committee, back in St. Louis after an inspection tour of other cities.

The committee suggests that the board pass an ordinance authorizing the Mayor to appoint as members of such a commission three business men who would serve without salary, and the chairman of the committee and the president of the Board of Public Service as ex-officio members. The ordinance would appropriate $50,000 to defray the cost of a survey by the commission.

"After giving attention to the street car facilities, service and fare in other cities, your committee believes that St. Louis facilities, service and fares compare more than favorably with other cities of its size, and that, with the elimination of bus competition by their co-ordination to such an extent as necessary into the present system, and with the addition of a very moderate rapid transit system, St. Louis will have the best local transportation of any city in the country for many years to come," the committee's report concludes.

Studied Systems in Seven Cities.

The aldermanic committee left St. Louis on Oct. 9. Visits were made at Washington, Philadelphia,
New York, Boston, Montreal, Detroit and Chicago. Inquiries were also made as to Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Cleveland, which were not visited because of lack of time.
The sum of $2500 had been appropriated to cover the expenses of the touring party, which consisted of Alderman Wimer, chairman of the committee; Aldermen Studt, Otto, Bergman and Langmuir, members of the committee; Deputy Comptroller Gunn and C. E. Smith, consulting engineer, representing President Kinney of the Board of Public Service.

The committee spent $1800 of the $2500, the $700 balance reverting to the Board of Aldermen's contingent fund from which it was appropriated.

Rapid Transit Elsewhere.

Under the heading of "Rapid Transit," the report reads:
"Rapid transit facilities are in operation in Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Chicago. In the first three cities construction of additional rapid transit lines is proceeding rapidly. In Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Detroit and Chicago, surveys and reports have been made or are under way and preparations are being made to proceed with rapid transit construction."

"At New York, Boston and Detroit, city transit commissions, acting under authority of State laws and city ordinances, have jurisdiction over the design and construction of rapid transit facilities. At Detroit the commission is composed of business men who receive no pay and do not devote their entire time to the commission. At New York and Boston, the chairmen give their entire time to the work, the other members do not, but salaries are paid them all."

"Expenditures for rapid transit studies in other cities are as follows: Pittsburgh has spent over $100,000; Baltimore is now spending about $75,000; Washington has just spent about $75,000; Philadelphia, New York and Boston have maintained commissions for many years for the study of transit at a total cost of over $1,000,000. Detroit has spent nearly $100,000; Cleveland has spent about $100,-

000; Chicago has spent nearly $1-000,000 for survey. Urged.
"St. Louis has appropriated $22-500 for the preliminary survey that is now nearing completion. With $50,000 more, as recommended in this report, all preliminary work should be finished, and future expenses of the Commission may thereafter be charged to the cost of construction."

"No suggestion was heard anywhere of the expenditure of committees for rapid transit facilities; it seems definitely taken for granted that only public funds will be used for this purpose."

Criticism of Bus Service.
The committee found that motor-bus competition existed in Washington, Detroit, New York and Chicago, and none in Pittsburg, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, Montreal and Cleveland. Criticism of competitive bus service in St. Louis is voiced as follows:

"Your committee also found that the most modern buses do not have solid rubber tires, but seats, uncovered tops, unenclosed stairways, noisy gear shifts and single door at only one end, but have pneumatic tires, upholstered seats, covered tops, enclosed stairways, quiet gasoline-electric drive and two doors, front and rear."

"Your committee believes that no more of the present type of double-deck buses should be permitted in St. Louis, and that an ordinance should be passed requiring those now operated to be equipped with pneumatic tires. Your committee is also of the opinion that motor-buses cannot furnish all the transportation on busy routes, that rail lines must be depended on for heavy service and that rapid transit facilities must be provided to expedite the car movement."

"Your committee everywhere
found the belief that motorbuses have an important bearing on local transportation as feeders and auxiliaries of the electric car system, but that as competitors they can seriously hamper or destroy the electric car service without being able to handle all the traffic themselves, with resulting injury to the public who ride the cars."

Boston Plan Favored.

Of all the cities visited, the committee decided the Boston transportation system is the best for St.
Louis to follow in most respects.
Boston is laid out much the same as St. Louis and has approximately the same population in its metropolitan district.

Boston has a single comprehensive system, known as the Boston Railway Co., operating subways, elevated, surface car lines and buses in co-ordination. The fare is 10 cents for general riding, except that short rides may be taken on surface lines in certain districts for 5 cents. The average fare is about about 9 cents. Formerly operated under franchise, the properties were taken over by the State several years ago, with the consent of the company.

The city of Boston has spent about $44,000,000 for subways. The company has spent about $26,000,- 000 for elevated lines in Boston and a subway in Cambridge outside Boston. The city of Boston is now spending $10,000,000 for extensions.

The Boston rapid transit system,
according to the report, could be adapted to St. Louis substantially to provide for the following:
Subway from downtown to Taylor avenue and Hodiament tracks, and to Grand boulevard and Gravois avenue.

Elevated and subway combination from O'Fallon Park to downtown district, and southwest to

Elevated loop serving wharves
and ferries along river front.

Street car subways under Broadway and Olive street in congested districts.

Tunnel under Mississippi River, connecting downtown St. Louis and East St. Louis.

Two Killed When Auto Skids.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 26.—
Miss Dorothy Smith of Kempton, Ind., and Herbert C. Chase of Wenatchee, Wash., Purdue University students, were killed yesterday when an automobile, in which they
and three other students were returning from a dance, overturned.
The other three were injured. The five had been to a sorority dance.
The car skidded on a wet pavement and turned over, and Chase died instantly. Miss Smith died, while being taken to a hospital.

CONVICTED MAN MAKES FORTUNE IN FLORIDA

F. L. Kriebel, Former Broker, in Fair Way to Pay His Creditors $2,000,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Booming values of Florida real estate may help several thousand persons hereabouts who have no investments
there and have given opportunities down there little thought. They are the creditors of Kriebel & Co., who failed three years ago for $2-000,000. Fred L. Kriebel, head of the defunct brokerage house, is facing a three-year term in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, but he is not especially downcast over the prospect.

Pending his appeal from the sentence and review of the case now awaiting action by the United States Supreme Court, Kriebel engaged in real estate, and on his own advice the concern with which he is connected bought a large tract of Florida land. It was directly in the line of the great boom, and has yielded a fortune, with only part of the holdings disposed of.

Arranges to Pay Creditors.
Kriebel, according to a statement to creditors by his attorney, has deposited with the Union Bank of Chicago 2500 shares of this company's stock, with provision that it is to be redeemed at $1000 a share, so that ultimately he will be able to pay off all his obligations, dollar for dollar, the extra half million taking care of it and other charges.

Since his failure and conviction,
Kriebel has been living quietly with his family in Winnetka, where he is highly esteemed as a neighbor. He had to borrow $50,000 to keep going, but friends gladly advanced this sum. There are only four men in the Florida syndicate, and the arrangement with the bank provides that for every dollar the four stockholders drew in dividends they must pay $4 to the bank in redemption of the stock held in trust for Kriebel's creditors.

The late John I. Beegs, Milwaukee multimillionaire, and heavily interested in Florida lands, was one of Kriebel's personal friends. It is understood Beegs financed the purchase of 27,000 acres in Florida
on Kriebel's representation that it was a "gold mine," and his judgment is being vindicated. Nine thousand acres of the farm land and more than $1,000,000 in home-sites already have been sold.

Kriebel's letter to his former customers, after explaining his plan to pay them back, concludes:

"You will understand that all the work I have done—the organization that has been built up—everything has been with the knowledge that I may not be able to give my personal attention to the conduct of this business. My appeal has been denied by the Circuit Court of Appeals. I am now petitioning the Supreme Court in Washington to hear my case. If the result is favorable, I can throw myself into the completion of the work which I have started in Florida with a lighter heart and greater energy than has hitherto been possible."

Do You Dodge a Dog That Scratches?

How many times have you felt disgust for a dog that scratches himself? Yet you noticed it because it is awkward for a dog to scratch. You don't notice yourself scratching your head, but others do. And you admit a man who digs
at his hair? It wouldn't itch
if it were healthy growth.

A dog is covered with hair all scratches. But for a man of normal mind with only the pinnacle of his being topped with hair, for him to scratch is a crime.

NASHVILLE, TENN., TOMORROW

Late Vice President of O. R. T. Spent Much Time at Grand Headquarters in St. Louis.

The funeral of J. W. Anderson, vice president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, who died unexpectedly Saturday night at Wilmington, N. C., will be tomorrow afternoon at his home at Nashville, Tenn. Burial will be at Franklin, a few miles from Nashville.

During the last eight years, as vice president, Anderson spent much of his time in St. Louis, grand division headquarters, being in charge of the organization's activities in the South. At the time of his death he was directing the strike of telegraph operators on the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. Although only 44 years old, he had spent 25 years in an official capacity in the organization.

His widow, three sons and three daughters, all of Nashville, survive.

The prisoner described himself as Gilbert Wilson, 19 years old, of Normandy. He is an ex-convict, the police say, having served six months of a two-year term for automobile theft in 1924. He confessed, they say, that he stole $80 from the shoe store of John Al-

THREE PERSONS, OVERCOME BY FUMES, RECOVERING

Mrs. Stanley Burns, Baby and Maid Were Rendered Unconscious in Home.
Mrs. Stanley Burns of 4603 Pershing avenue virtually has recovered from the effect of carbon monoxide fumes which overcame her Friday after she had dragged herself to a telephone and summoned a physician to revive her 11-month-old baby and her maid, Miss Margaret Patterson. The baby is completely over the effects of the poisonous, odorless and colorless gas, and the maid has nearly recovered.
Mrs. Burns was on the second floor of the home when she heard a fall in the next room. There she found Miss Patterson and the baby unconscious. She attempted to open a window but could not. Bewildered by her weakness, she tried to revive the baby before telephoning for her husband, Dr. Stanley Burns. He was out, but she reached Dr. E. W. White, at the Lister Building nearby, and then fell unconscious across the foot of a bed.
The physician was admitted by the cook, who was not affected, since a window was open in the kitchen. Dr. Burns said that he believed the fumes, from a nearly smokeless fuel, had been forced back down the chimney by the wind and out a vent near the furnace, mounting by the cellarway to pervade the house.

DANIEL BOONE HOME WILL BE RESTORED

Purchased by F. M. Curlee and G. M. Hagee, Descendants of Pioneer.

The Missouri homestead of Daniel Boone in St. Charles County, in which the great American pioneer died Sept. 24, 1820, has been purchased by two St. Louis descendants of the frontiersman, Col. Francis Marion Boone and George M. Curlee, attorneys, with offices in the Postmen's Bank Building. Col. Curlee said he and Hagee had bought the property because of its historical significance and the great beauty of the house and its surroundings. It is their intention to restore the residence, furnish it appropriately and use it as a country home.

Col. Curlee is a descendant of Daniel Boone's brother through his mother. Mary Boone, who was the daughter of Col. Francis Marion Boone, commander of the Twenty-third Mississippi Infantry in the Civil War, and who was killed in action at the battle of the Wilderness.

48 Miles from St. Louis, the Boone homestead is on the Boone Creek, about 48 miles from St. Louis. It was purchased from Mrs. Jennie Fortstell of Normandy, also a descendant of the Boone family, who, taking an interest in the house in which Daniel Boone lived and died, made every effort to have the property kept and owned as a public shrine.

With that purpose in view, Mrs. Fortstell bought the property and collected some subscriptions, but being unable to interest a sufficient number of persons in the project, she returned the subscription, and sold the property to Col. Curlee and Hagee at a price which simply reimbursed her for her direct investment in it and which somewhat exceeded the price at which she had offered to turn the property over to trustees for a public shrine.

The homestead property includes a tract of about three acres. The house, which is on a wooded hill, is held to be the first stone building erected in Missouri outside of St. Louis. The property is part of the 44 acres of land awarded Daniel Boone by the Spanish Government.

DANIEL BOONE HOME WILL BE RESTORED

Purchased by F. M. Curlee and G. M. Hagee, Descendants of Pioneer.

The Missouri homestead of Daniel Boone in St. Charles County, in which the great American pioneer died Sept. 26, 1820, has been purchased by two St. Louis descendants of the frontiersman, Col. Francis M. Curlee and George M. Hagee, attorneys, with offices in the Boatmen's Bank Building. Col. Curlee said he and Hagee bought the property because of its historical significance and the beauty of the house and its surroundings. It is their intention to restore the residence, furnish it appropriately and use it as a country home.

Col. Curlee is a descendant of Daniel Boone's brother through his mother, Mary Boone, who was the daughter of Col. Francis Marion Boone, commander of the Twenty-first Mississippi Infantry in the Civil War, and who was killed in action at the battle of the Wilderness.

33 miles from St. Louis, the Boone homestead is on the Osage Creek, about 48 miles from St. Louis. It was purchased from Mrs. Jennie Forstell of Maryland, also a descendant of the Boone family, who, taking an interest in the house in which Daniel Boone lived and died, made every effort to have the property kept and owned as a public shrine.

With that purpose in view, Mrs. Forstell bought the property and placed some subscriptions, but being unable to interest a sufficient number of persons in the project, she returned the subscription and sold the property to Col. Curlee and Hagee at a price which simply reimbursed her for her direct investment in it and which somewhat exceeded the price at which she had offered to turn the property over to trustees for a public shrine.

The homestead property includes a tract of about three acres. The house, which is on a wooded hill, is held to be the first stone building erected in Missouri outside of St. Louis. The property is part of the 160 acres of land awarded Daniel Boone by the Spanish Government.

WE all want to wear clean clothes but not at the expense of a wife's or a mother's health. In this laundry, men have solved the problem of washing clothes thoroughly well and of sterilizing them. # INCLUSION OF ALTON WATER PLANT IN MERGER PROPOSED Purchase Price by American Company, Now Operating 25 Systems, Not Disclosed.

Negotiations for the sale of the Alton Water Co. system in Alton to the American Water Works and Electric Co. have about reached consummation, and are awaiting a report of auditors who were sent to Alton by the prospective purchasers of the company to check up on the values and business of the Alton Water Co. The purchase price has not been made known. The American Water Works and Electric Co. owns 35 water plants and is negotiating for more. Plants in East St. Louis, Belleville and Granite City are owned by the American.

The Alton water works was organized in 1906, when Alton men took over the plant from the bondholders of the old New England Water Works Co., with C. H. Verner at its head. George M. Lewis, head of the Illinois Glass Co., is president of the Alton Water Works Co.

DETECTIVES, WITHOUT SEARCH WARRANT, RAID A HOME

Beer Found in Rooming House and Woman Proprietor Is Arrested.

Detectives Abbott and Frank, acting without a search warrant, at 10 o'clock last night forced an entrance to the home of Miss Ada Garrison, 4012A Chouteau avenue, which they report as a rooming house, and arrested Miss Garrison after finding 10 gallons of beer mash and eight bottles of beer in the house.

The detectives were accompanied on the raid by Mrs. Maud Dicus, 4009A Chouteau, who declared that her brother had been buying beer at the Garrison home. A man answered a knock at the door and when he denied entrance to the detectives and slammed the door, they pushed it open and entered. The man, they report, fled through a rear door.

$457,868,000 STATE
UTILITIES ASSESSMENT

Increase of $67,800,000 Over Last Year—Includes All Common Carriers.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 26.—
Assessed valuation of Missouri public utilities and common carriers, for 1925 taxes are placed at $457,868,539 by the State Board of Equalization in its final report on public utility assessments, made public today.

This is an increase of $67,800,452
over the $390,068,087 total for utilities in 1924. However, the 1925 assessments include $56,759,800 in assessments of pipe line and electric power companies, heretofore assessed locally, and which came under the state tax commission and board of equalization this year for the first time. Assessments for those companies were not included in the 1924 utility figures.

The electric companies, with a total of $40,522,066, received an average increase of about fifty per cent over last year, but the exact amount of the increase for them is not available as for other utilities. The tax commission did not compile totals on the electric company tax returns, for purposes of comparison when submitting its assessment recommendations to the board of equalization. As was told in the Post-Dispatch the assessment of all taxable property in Missouri for 1925 will total approximately $4,710,000,000. Data still is being compiled on the merchants' and manufacturers' assessment, made locally. With that exception, all the assessments have been completed.

Assessments on Utilities.
Final assessment for property in the public utility classification are as follows:

Steam railroads and terminals,
$288,971,544, increase of $2,818,- 252; street railways, $67,328,362, increase of $851,442; bridge companies, $7,130,075, increase of $70,- 988; telephone companies, $36,- 149,457, increase of $2,795,599; telegraph companies, $6,583,120, increase of $434,401; pipe line companies, $16,237,734, assessed locally
last year and figures on last year assessment not compiled by Tax Commission; electric light and transmission companies, $40,522,- 066, assessed locally last year and comparison not available; increase said to be about 50 per cent.

Assessment of the United Railways Co. of St. Louis was $47,- 163,480, an increase of $387,829
over last year. The United Railways' assessment was 69 per cent of the total street railway assessment for the State.
The Southwestern Bell Telephone
Co., operating in 30 Missouri counties, with about half its property in St. Louis, was assessed at $19,- 093,954, an increase of $2,001,884.
The Southwestern Bell assessment was 57 per cent of the State total on telephone property. Telephone assessments by the State board do not include the company land, buildings and certain other property assessed locally.

The Union Electric Light and Power Co. of St. Louis was assessed $17,451,000, exclusive of certain property assessed locally, an increase of $6,297,986 over its return to the State. The Union Electric assessment was 48 per cent of the total for the 104 electric companies in Missouri.

Assessment of the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association and five subsidiary companies operating in and near St. Louis was fixed at $19,271,873, an increase of $1,- 060,000 over 1924.

The Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis is assessed locally. It does not come under the State board.

The Tax Commission now is working out the distribution of the utility assessments to the counties.
The total assessment of a railroad on its property within the State is divided by its main line mileage within Missouri, to determine a per mile assessment. The total assessment then is apportioned to counties traversed by the line, on the basis of the miles of main line track in each county. Rural counties gain by this. The apportionment for telephone assessment is determined by miles of wire; street railways and interurbans by miles of track; electric companies by miles of wire and pipe line companies by miles of pipe line.

CHINESE STUDENTS RIOT AT DOORS OF CUSTOMS MEETING

Thirty Police and Several Demonstrators Injured in Barrage of Sticks and Stones.

ORDER RESTORED. CONFERENCE OPENS

Pekin Delegates Ask Powers to Restore Native Autonomy and Agree to National Statute.

By the Associated Press.
PEKIN, Oct. 26.—The demand of 200 Chinese students to be admitted to the customs conference today resulted in a riot outside the conference building in which more than 20 police and several students were injured.
The students held a demonstration outside the building, demanding admission. When this was refused they attacked the police with sticks and stones. Several of the students were arrested, and order was restored.
China opened the customs conference with a proposal that the Powers restore to her complete tariff autonomy and agree to the enforcement of a Chinese national customs law, beginning not later than Jan. 1, 1928.
Chief Executive Tuan Chi-Jui read a brief address of felicitations at the opening.
Shen Chosen Chairman.
Foreign Minister Shen Jui-Lin was chosen chairman by acclamation and in his address declared that changed conditions demanded the revision of treaties of 80 years' standing. He expressed the hope that the Powers would avail themselves of this opportunity to readjust the treaties so that China might exercise full sovereign rights.
Speeches by heads of the foreign delegations followed. John V. A. MacMurray, the American Minister, said the Americans were prepared to consider open-mindedly and generously any reasonable plan with a view to realizing China's aspirations. His sentiment was the keynote of all the speeches.
Zhi Hsueh of the Japanese delegation said that tariff autonomy must imply the existence of a strong, unified Government and a removal of trade restrictions, which he hoped China might achieve.
China's aspirations concerning this conference were crystallized shortly after the delegates convened in a sweeping list of proposals set forth by Dr. C. T. Wang, former Premier and Foreign Minister. The Chinese Foreign Minister, Shen Jui-Lin, acting as chairman, made an opening address which Dr. Wang supplemented at Shen's request.
Chinese Proposals.
Wang proposed the following points as a basis for discussion:
That the Powers agree to the removal of tariff restrictions contained in their existing treaties with China. This would be equivalent to the restoration of tariff autonomy.
That China abolish the illicit (taxes on interprovincial trade) simultaneously with the enforcement of China's national tariff law, which would take effect not later than Jan. 1, 1928. (This tariff law was promulgated Oct. 24, apparently with a view to its use as a basis for negotiations in this conference.)
That previous to the enforcement of the national tariff law an interim tax of 5 per cent be levied on ordinary goods; a 10 per cent tax on grade A luxuries, including wines and tobacco, and a 25 per cent tax on grade B luxuries, these in addition to the present ad valorem 5 per cent tariff.
Provision for Collection.
That the collection of these interim taxes begin three months before the date of signature of the agreement reached by this conference.
That decisions relative to the above four articles be carried into effect from the date of signature of the agreement.
The Chinese national tariff law referred to in these proposals provides taxes on imports ranging between 7½ per cent and 40 per cent ad valorem, except on wines and tobacco, for which the proposed charges range between 50 and 55 per cent. The law also provides for a restricted discriminatory and healthful tariff.

Shen Cabinet to Hold Office.
PEKIN, Oct. 26.—Chapin Phillips' Cabinet, at a meeting today, decided to remain in office, notwithstanding the resignation of the three Nationalist ministers, whose party has declared its disavowal of the security agreements negotiated at Louren.

ROW OVER ROUTE DELAYS BELT ROAD PLANS IN COUNTY

Court Proposes One and Contests State Commis- sion's Authority to Fol- low Any Other.

USE OF INJUNCTION ACTION THREATENED

Dispute Centers on North End of Thoroughfare
That Would Connect
With Four Laterals.

With Four Laterals.

Construction of a belt highway to connect the four lateral State highways in St. Louis County, and link together sections of the county, is being delayed by a controversy between the State Highway Commission and the County Court as to the proper route to be fol-

The State is to build the road in repayment of more than $900,000 advanced by the county in the building of the four State roads. The law provides that such refund construction must serve to connect State highways and gives the Highway Commission authority to designate the route, but the County Court contests that authority and asserts that the belt road should be built as it desires.

About $500,000 was to have been spent by the commission in starting the belt road next year but this work probably will be postponed until the differences are ironed out, it is stated at Jefferson City.

Northern End in Dispute.

The northern end of the highway, starting from the St. Charles road, is in dispute. The State proposed utilizing Ashby road between St. Charles and Lackland roads, but the commission across country onto the Schuetz road, which is a northern extension of Denny road. Schuetz road leads into Denny road at Olive Street road. There would be no grade crossings, as bridges could be built without need of approaches for the Creve Coeur and Rock Island tracks. The route would have no sharp turns. Instead of this the County Court proposed having the highway follow the meandering course of Fessenden, Dorset, and Link roads between St. Charles and Olive Street roads. This route involves grade crossings of the Creve Coeur and Rock Island lines which would be difficult to eliminate, and has numerous turns.

The State route between Fessenden and St. Charles and Olive Street and Denny measures 5.3 miles; this County Court route is just one mile longer.

One Hook Eliminated.

One hook of the County Court route has been eliminated by mutual consent, the court conceding the advisability of building across country from Mount Pleasant, on Dorsett road, to the Schuets road. This would be nine-tenths of a mile shorter than the court's original proposal and would eliminate the Rock Island grade crossing, as an underpass would be feasible in

However, the State still objected to the hook in the County Court route passing through Maryland Heights, at the junction of Fee Fee and Dorsett roads and the consequent Creve Coeur grade crossing. It proposed as a compromise route to cut across country from a point north of the Jewish Sanatorium, on Fee Fee road, to a point about half a mile east of Maryland Heights on Dorsett road. This change would shorten the County Court route by four tenths of a mile.

The State is willing to follow the County Court route to the extent of turning into Fee Fee road at Pattonville, following the cut-off behind the Jewish Sanatorium, then utilizing Dorsett road and the cut-off onto Schuett road. This cut between Sappington and the Sunset Hill Country Club, and follow Sappington Barracks road, with some straightenings, to Melville on Lemay Ferry road.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN YOUR column "Letters From the People" I notice a letter from Mr. E. E. Nielsen in which he commends one of your editorials and suggests the advisability of disseminating such articles among the news items. I can readily see Mr. Nielsen's object for I, too, have often wished that everyone could read your editorials. But to place your editorials in such manner would destroy the intellectual page of your great paper.

It is possibly true that people as a general rule do not read the editorial page of many papers. It is my opinion, however, that if anyone ever reads the editorial page of the Post-Dispatch once they will surely turn to it again. On it one will find alertness for the people's welfare; well written "stuffs" expression of ideas; fearless and "undictated" criticisms of all matters of a public nature; an attractive and unpretentious cartoon. And, by the way, this is getting to be an unusual feature. Most of the papers run syndicated cartoons, being too stingy or unable to have a cartoonist of their own. Such papers are, therefore, unable to express through cartoons (which is the most powerful way) their own policy.

I wish to commend all your editorials; your policy and your general makeup. You have a great paper and your are running it in a great way. Keep it up and good luck to you.

The Smoke Nuisance Still With Us.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

TOWARDS the end of last winter the citizens of St. Louis were promised that this winter would see a vast improvement in, if not entire elimination of the smoke nuisance.

Even this early in the season there is abundant evidence that there will be no fulfillment of this promise. During the past summer several large apartment buildings were erected in different parts of the city—and have their engine rooms built constructed with an eye to the elimination of smoke or even a diminution of it? Not so that it can be noticed. The writer has in mind one particular large apartment building, erected during the past summer. Even now on these particularly cold mornings the smokestack belches forth enormous volumes of smoke—a token of its offering for the rest of the winter.

If no measures have been taken to compel the installation of smoke prevention apparatus in new buildings, what are the chances that any honest-to-goodness effort has been made to have owners of old buildings give us relief from their smoke?

Improve Street Car Service.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SQUARE DEALS' letter yesterday about passenger comfort, comparing buses and street cars, was fine and I agree with him heartily. I was one who welcomed the buses to St. Louis with lots of enthusiasm and to ride them a lot, but I have come to think that after all the street car is a better proposition. I have had enough of the jolting and jarring and the inconvenience of riding the double-deck buses.

And judging by the number of people who ride the double-deck buses it doesn't seem to me that they are a paying proposition or that there is enough business to warrant the amount of street space that they take up, especially in the downtown district. Of course there are some people who will always prefer the bus, but unless there are a great many of those people it hardly warrants the slowing up of traffic to allow so many buses to run.

The street cars are the thing for most of the people and if the street car company would just snap into it and do a few little things to improve the service they would find even more support than they get now.

A Post-Dispatch "True Life" Story.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

T HE MAJOR (Mr.) Republican's praise of Mr. Burke's story of Gus Shapshap, "Man Who Never Did Anything," is well deserved. It is a little observation that it requires the poetic instinct to discern and a mastery of the art of verbal expression to describe the commonplace in such a manner as to make it interesting, but it will bear repetition in connection with Mr. Burke's achievement. As the Macon paper puts it, "most writers would have passed up the story of Shapshap's life, but the real artist came along and saw rich material in it. All of which reminds one of how neatly a poet has expressed this thought: A poem hangs on the berry bush."

When passed the post by: A man who never did anything, in the words of Shakespeare, passed by. Mr. Burke may shrink from praise comparable to Shakespeare's, but nevertheless the case covered in the lines quoted in the case of his story of Gus Shapshap very well indeed. V. D. N.

THE TAX HEARING.

The Treasury Department is not winning any fresh laurels in the present conference on the prospective revenue act. It seems to have proceeded on the assumption that, in this measure, the larger incomes would be the principal, if not the sole, beneficiaries of tax reduction. But the conference had hardly gotten under way before that notion was knocked into a cocked hat. The department realized that. It accordingly submitted a schedule of reduction for the lower brackets, but the haste with which this detail was prepared is evidenced in the fact that its first figures have been withdrawn and another set of proposals submitted.

It is a matter of record that certain attempts were made to prepare the public mind for the kind of bill favored by the Treasury Department. There have been random conjectures from time to time in the past six months that, since the smaller incomes were taken care of a year ago, it was now the big fellows' turn. There is, of course, a measure of fairness in that contention. There can be no question, either, that preponderant public sentiment approves reduction in the upper brackets. Spokesmen of both parties in Congress have gone on record to that effect. But that does not mean that the smaller incomes were to have no share in this second relief installment. Relief must be passed around all the way around. That is the postulate on which the bill now being prepared must be fashioned—and every subsequent relief bill, too.

Meanwhile the tax hearings at Washington are bringing forth interesting facts and calculations in striking relays. We were told in the Sunday papers that, if the automobile tax was entirely eliminated, the price of automobiles would be cut $126,000,000, and leaders of the industry pledged themselves to pass this saving on to the public. There is no chance, we should say, of the motor people's prayer being granted in full—possibly not at all. Nevertheless, their petition serves a sound purpose. It gives the people a tangible idea of the tax burden they are carrying. It drives home to them the fact that their income tax, after all, is only an item in a staggering bill.

It does more than that. It raises a question as to the wisdom of the policy we are pursuing with respect to paying the national debt. Shall we stick to the plan of paying that debt in 25 years? Would it not be wiser to extend the period of payment, say, to 62 years, and thus synchronize it with the general scheme by which the European nations are to pay their debts to us? This is a question of paramount importance. The people would like to know about it. They would like to know how much taxes could be reduced if we should shift from a 25-year to a 62-year payment plan.

The question is one for the Treasury Department to answer. It should answer it as fully as possible, not forgetting the poignant truth that this enormous debt was contracted in large part for the security and happiness of posterity which in all equity might pay a share of the cost.

THE TERRIBLE TERRAPIN.

Another inquiry threatens "that grassy parallelogram that men call Kansas." Somewhere south of Arkansas City, where the sporting blood of a new state may tempt men to try anything once, the terrapin derby has taken hold and may come to rival stud poker among those who would take a chance. The land tortoises are grouped together in the center of a circle, after being duly numbered, and interested spectators try to guess which will be the first to cross the circle when the lid is lifted. Such pastimes have served to make an Oklahoma holiday, and now the diversion has spread northward into the Sunflower State.

But are Kansas to sit idly by and see their Commonwealth corrupted by the evil enterprises of a nefarious neighbor? Not so, says Representative Stephen H. Frazier of Elk City, who now rushes to the hustings to advocate a law that shall forever forbid the terrapin from showing its stride to amuse a wheat belt gathering. Other states may tread the downward path, but Kansas must be spared the corrupting influence of the snapping turtle and its kindred, and there ought to be a law.

Carrie Nation "rides on her raids no more." Sockless Jerry Simpson is but a distant memory, and few recall those dim days when Mary Ellen Lease urged the agrarian populace to raise more hell and less wheat. "John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the grave," but Kansas is Kansas still, and no playboys from the Panhandle or points south need think to turn it to frivolous ways, or shake its bulwarks with new departures in entertainment.

Nor will the people writhe greatly if the reformers work their will. Kansas has long had laws against pretty much everything, and another will not intensify the congestion of the statute books appreciably.

THE LAST BITTER WORD

Just a month before his death, Henry Cabot Lodge finished a manuscript which perpetuates his hatred of Woodrow Wilson. The passing of his old adversary from the scene did not soften the heart of the man from Nahant, and he has left a distorted picture of Wilson which can only react upon himself.

"The key to all he did was that he thought of everything in terms of Wilson," wrote Lodge. "In other words, Mr. Wilson, in dealing with every great question, thought first of himself. He may have thought of the country next, but there was a long interval, and in the competition the Democratic party. I will do him the justice to say, was a poor third."

Mr. Wilson was devoured by the desire for power. Lodge took pains to make himself the aggrieved party in the feud. He recalls that years ago, as editor of a review, he accepted Wilson's first published article. He cites his support of Wilson in the Panama toll fight. He recounts a snub which Wilson administered him by refusing to speak on a certain occasion if Lodge were to be present.

By a clever analytical process, Lodge undertakes to tear down Wilson's reputation as a statesman. Wilson cannot correctly be termed "a very great man." He lacked the scholarly attainments popularly attributed to him. He was misinformed on important subjects. He was given to hiding behind twisted phraseology and half-truths. He was sometimes timid and weak and undecided. So does Lodge speak of his dead enemy.

Wilson, to be sure, was a man vulnerable to criticism, but this small-caliber fusillade of a man who gloried in the role of Wilson's arch-enemy will not weigh in the final estimate of the war President. What Lodge wrote of Wilson is but a revelation of the latter than it is of the pettiness and bitterness of Lodge. It betrays the shortcomings of a man who, destined by ancestry, education, wealth and position for great things, failed to leave one fair monument for himself.

DECREASED CITY EXPENSES.

It is gratifying to note that within the first six months of the Miller administration expenditures for municipal purposes, exclusive of the Water Department, which pays for itself, have decreased $52,603. This is the net decrease according to the report of the comptroller.

The decrease was forced by an emergency, and was accomplished chiefly through the reduction of city employees. About 500 were dropped from the rolls. Whether that many could be spared is a question to be determined by results in city service, but they were dropped to meet the emergency.

The chief cause of the emergency was the increase in the expense of the Police Department due to the larger salaries granted by the State Legislature. The cost of the Police Department increased by $245,074.78. The city has no control over these expenditures and is not responsible for the increase. The Board of Aldermen must appropriate and the city treasury must pay the budget of the Police Department, in accord with the acts of the State Legislature.

The net decrease is subject to a possible change of $21,677.93, owing to an increase of $25 a month in the pay of firemen, which was voted by the people under the initiative. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment refused to act in accordance with the popular vote and a suit is now pending in the Supreme Court to test the validity of the initiative ordinance. There are increases in other offices which are paid by the city but over the expenses of which it has no control. But $30,213.84 advanced to the Sheriff will be collected in fees and returned to the treasury, assuring the net decrease credited to the administration, with something over.

Although the decrease was due to an emergency, it is to the credit of the Miller administration that a genuine effort to meet the emergency has been made. It is a step in the right direction, and a wholesome experiment which may lead to a permanent reduction in the number of City Hall employees. It may demonstrate that the city government can work efficiently with less employees, with better service from each employee.

WHAT OF THE HOME?

A rather astonishing statement is made in Dr. George B. Mangold's survey of the social needs of St. Louis, namely, that one out of every nine married women is engaged in some painful occupation. If this be true, it is a close-at-hand indication of violent changes in the social order.

If wives as well as husbands must or do leave the home every day to earn money enough to support themselves, the home itself is suffering. This means that the efficiency apartment and the delicatessen meal represent the home life of a good many St. Louisans. It means that many of these couples either have no children or, having them, are obliged to neglect them.

Dr. Mangold says that there were last year 8835 marriages, while in 1923 there were 2687 divorces, or a divorce for every three and a fourth marriages. There is, undoubtedly, some relation between these two facts. Home life that rests on such slender threads is easily sundered. The mechanical ease of moving from an efficiency apartment, as contrasted with the old-time problems of furniture and bothersome lease, is in itself an encouragement to divorce. And one delicatessen meal tastes just as good as another.

The growing spirit of independence in women is largely responsible for these conditions. Woman, enslaved, exploited and repressed or sheltered and petted for centuries, is getting a taste of the freedom that man has always known. We sympathize with her, yet we wonder what ultimately is to take the place of the old-fashioned home.

THE LYING BUSINESS OF WAR.

War is not only a grim and savage business of Governments; it is also a lying business, as we may deduce from what may be termed the confessions of Brigadier-General J. V. Charteris, Chief of Intelligence of the British Army during the war, before the National Arts Club in New York recently.

England, said Gen. Charteris, at one stage was worried about the attitude of China. At that time there came to his desk two photographs taken from a German prisoner, one showing a train taking dead horses to the rear to be boiled for fat and fertilizer; the other showing a train taking dead Germans to the rear for burial. On the photograph showing the horses were the word "cadaver." Knowing how the Chinese revere their ancestors, Gen. Charteris says he transposed the caption "cadaver" to the other photograph and sent the picture to a newspaper in Shanghai. In due time the story of the "horrible boiling down of German soldiers" reached the Western world as Gospel truth.

Even when interpellated in Parliament on the subject, the Chief of Intelligence informs us that he replied that from what he knew of German mentality he was prepared for anything.

Falsehood and deceit, reprobated as despicable in the peaceful relations of man, are thus exalted to the niche of virtue in war; and on the return of peace honorable men do not hesitate to delight honorable auditors with tales of their dishonorable exploits.

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

Socrates: I am sorry you young men were not at the agora last night. We had a debate on prohibition, the first one we have had in a long time. I think the interchurch report on prohibition shamed some of us a bit. We realized when it came out that the other side was more disposed to fairness than we had been.

Glaucon: I am glad to hear you say that, Socrates. I felt precisely that. Socrates: No doubt. Anyway, the air has been clearer since that report came out. People on both sides have come down from their high horses, and more sensible things have been said about prohibition in the last few weeks than had been said in the preceding five years.

Thrasymachus: You said something then, Socrates. Did you? Well, the subject came up at the agora last night. Critics precipitated the debate by saying that it is of no use to meet and debate other issues while this great issue remains unsettled. It is his opinion that our failure to reach conviction as to the merits and demerits of prohibition has had the effect of destroying our confidence in ourselves to make head or tail of any question. We lost confidence in ourselves, or so Critics think. It is for this reason that we did not know what to think of the oil scandal and so did nothing about it. We did not, in his opinion, mean to approve of things done by some officers of the Government. We had been demoralized and cowed by our doubts about prohibition until we were unable to act upon any conviction.

Thrasymachus: My case, exactly. I went to the polls tortured by doubt and so took the fire escape. That is, I voted for Coolidge. Socrates: I think most of us did. However, the police as to prohibition, that since the interchurch report was frank enough to admit that there is evil in prohibition the other side is more disposed to admit that there is evil in the liquor traffic. If we have agreed that mutual admission, we ought to be on the way to some sort of reform in which we can all join.

Glaucon: Truly. Socrates: I thought so, and when they were kind enough to ask me to say what I think I was glad to say so. There is no doubt that prohibition had a most excellent motive. No more doubt, indeed, than that the people who believe in it and refuse to respect it are quite as honorable in that belief as the people who do believe in it. If we can accept that, we ought to be able to agree that both the liquor traffic and prohibition are evil and that some middle ground will have to be found upon which we can all stand in mutual defense against both.

Thrasymachus: Did anybody walk out when you said that? Socrates: No, we are not walking out on one another the way we did, Thrasymachus. Polemarchus: In that case, suppose we walk out in the evening after a little.

Maybe the Greeks are thinking of another time on earth, like the Romans.

Our State Department may not know much of American traditions, but it apparently knows something about women. When the wife of Count Karolyi applied for permission to come into this country and lecture the department said no. It permitted the Count to come in on condition that he would hold his tongue, but it would take chances at all upon the Countess. Probably the country would laugh at it if it did make such a bargain with a woman. Women are not in the habit of holding their tongues. So far as the department knows there is no instance in history where one of them ever promised to do so. No importance could be attached to such a promise, anyway. That is the way the department looks at it, or seems to look at it. Does someone care to say that this is unjustified by what we know of women? We think not. We are sorry to see women's clubs deprived of so great a diversion as a lady bolshevist and countess, either of which is enough to relieve programs of the tedious afflictions them just now, but suppose the good woman promised to hold her tongue and then failed to do so? How would we stop her?

Mr. When it was first announced that Harold Bell Wright's "Uncle Ike" would be deposited as a Postmaster, you made the caustic comment that it showed what the Government cared about literature. What have you got to say now about the decision to retain him, enforced by the indignified protests of our lovers of literature? I cannot refrain from boasting that I actually visited the Oaks without ever having read "The Shepherd of the Hills." It is a charming country. My only objection is the sickly pall cast over it by the Harold Bell Wright legend. If he had only had the foresight to pick on Tennessee for the locale of his story, what a perfect setting the "Shepherd" tradition would have made for the Scopes trial.

HELL'S BELLS RING.

But if that arrest had been unusual and every other sort of unconstitutionality, and when it is sent forth from the editorial page of the Post-Dispatch, than which there is no greater than whether when it comes to defending its people from such. There but told us of the scientific better and got us all worked up over the race to come, and then treated us worse than "The Lady or the Tiger," and we still do not know whether Bonnie Mary or Old Dog breed in. I'm betting some other dog stuck out the winning nose.

A VITAL DECISION.

From the Wall Street Journal. THE SUPREME COURT handed down a decision that attracts almost no attention. Yet it is of vital importance. In substance the court holds that it is a violation of the eighth amendment to search a home for evidence of a crime except as incident to a search made under a lawful warrant at the same time and place.

This is one of the constitutional rights of the people. In Boyd against the United States, 114 U. S. Reports, the Supreme Court gave a lengthy decision upholding this constitutional right. And yet how many times it has been violated by the enforcing the prohibition and the numerous drug laws. They have no right to enter a home without a warrant charging a crime without that authority.

This principle is as old as the American race. The English law held a man's home to be his castle. No officer could enter it unless he held a warrant charging a felony, crime of violence, or some other stolen goods. That home might be the stage of the poorest peasant with its thatched roof open to the wind and rain, yet the King could not step across its threshold.

Our ancestors brought that principle of personal liberty to America. When the Massachusetts colony wrote its constitution in 1780 it included the right of the King's Advocate and took up the cause of his speech at that trial was one of the memorable ever delivered. Mr. Warren Hastings, but there was no man present to paint that scene in the room at Boston, where, before the judges in their robes of scarlet and black, the great trial of the century was held. The county of Middlesex in their green and tie-wigs, the eloquent young barristers pleading the cause of personal liberty, was there, John Adams said, the scene of dependence, was born.

But if that scene had not been so great a historic scene, the spirit lives in the Constitution declares that the right of the people to be secure in their persons, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

The Supreme Court of the United States in the case of a man whose office was searched and afterward went to his home searched for evidence of his crime, again upheld this vital right of the people.

WORSE THAN HARD WORK. From the Philadelphia Record.

THE Cleveland Plain Dealer, commenting recently upon the statement of the distinguished British psychologist, Sir Cyril Keith, that nobody can use his head to damage it, admits this to be the truth. "But," it says, "you can damage your brain terribly by not using it enough. It is not hard work, but hard worry. It is responsible for most of the so-called breakdowns which are becoming so common in this country."

DRAMA

"Cobra," at Empress, Is Tragedy of Friendship With Tense Emotional Force.

TO THE good-humored construction of their clientele, the Woodward Players this week are presenting a four-act tragedy, "Cobra," by Martin Brown. This drama of love, friendship and death aroused some discussion when it was given in New York during the spring of 1924. It has not heretofore been seen in St. Louis.

Jack Race and Tony Dornier are roommates at Harvard. Jack is poor, Tony is a millionaire. Jack is a famous athlete, and Tony is a famous scholar. Jack is a gentle, sensitive, and Tony is a modern, arrogant. Elise Van Zile, brought up with the idea of marrying wealth, takes a matrimonial ball at sight of Jack, but quickly shifts the chase to Tony on learning that the sumptuous quarters and costly trappings belong to him. The innocent is run down without trouble.

Virtues Are Wearisome. Elise soon finds her husband a virtue and worship a total bore. She consoles herself with various men. Finding that Jack has fallen in love with Judith Drake, she poisons the girl's mind with tales of his past, and the straight-laced damsel succumbs to his offer of marriage. Elise catches him off the rebound, and carries him off to a dreary hotel. Jack comes to his senses in time, and flees. But the hotel catches fire, and Elise is burned to death.

Tony knows merely that his idolized wife has disappeared, or that the bodies were burned beyond identification. Jack is the only one who knows her fate, and he is confronted by a horrible dilemma. Shall he permit his friend to live in a torture of uncertainty, or bring down his world in ruins about him by revealing Elise's baseness and her own perfidy? He chooses the former alternative.

A Life of Hypocrisy. After a year, Tony opens his wife's desk and finds there convincing proof of his wife's infidelity. But he finds also a letter in which Jack had repudiated her importunities with cold brutality. Tony heaps coals of fire on his friend's head, by declaring that this letter kept him from killing himself, just as Jack once before had saved his life by disarming a madman with a revolver.

So there they are left—Tony, finding his only consolation in his faith in his friend's loyalty, and Jack condemned to a life-time of hypocrisy and remorse, alleviated somewhat by the love of repentant Elise. This conflict is developed with sure emotional tones by the playwright, and is depicted with sterling skill by Leona Powers, Bobby Reed, J. Glynn McFarlane, George Neese, Arthur Allard and Marjorie Rieken.

NEW Y. M. H. A. BUILDING

Chancellor Hadley of Washington U. Speaks at Ceremony—Structure to Cost $500,000. The corner stone of the new Y. M. H. A. building of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, under construction at the southeast corner of Union boulevard and Englewood avenue, was laid yesterday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. When completed, the building will be a four-story structure, with auditorium, gymnasium, swimming pool, library, club and class rooms, and a home for the Young Women's Hebrew Association.

Chancellor Hadley of Washington University, one of the principal speakers yesterday, expressed confidence in the youth of today. "If I did not have confidence in the young men and young women of this generation, I would not continue in the field of education," he said. "Buildings such as this are instruments to bring the young men and women of life to the younger generation."

The invocation was by Rabbi Samuel Hirsch, who presided at the ceremony. David Sommer, president of the Y. M. H. A., described the building as a vindication of the faith of those encouraging a modern sort of center for the Jewish youth of the city. Gilbert Harris, executive director, declared all groups in America were part of the national sentiment. Sydney Shoenberg, chairman of the ceremony, which was presided over by Walter S. Marx participated.

The corner stone of the new $500,000 building of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, under construction at the southeast corner of Union boulevard and Emerson street, was laid yesterday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. When completed, the building will be a four-story structure, with auditorium, gymnasium, swimming pool, library, club and new rooms and will house also the Young Women's Hebrew Association.

Chancellor Hadley of Washington University, one of the principal speakers yesterday, expressed confidence in the youth of today. "If I did not have confidence in the young men and young women of this generation, I would not continue in the field of education," he said. "Buildings such as this are monuments to bring the worthwhile things of life to the younger generation."

The invocation was by Rabbi Samuel Salo, while Rabbi Samuel Friedman gave the benediction. Dr. Samuel Salo, president of the Y. M. H. A., described the building as a vindication of the faith of those encouraging a modern social center for the Jewish youth of the city. Gilbert Harris, executive director, declared all groups in America were part of the national movement. Sydney Shoenberg was chairman of the ceremony, which was participated by Walter S. ## MRS. VIOLA ANDERSON DIES AT HOSPITAL

Widow of Lorenzo E. Anderson Had Been Ill for Several Months.

Mrs. Viola C. Anderson, widow of Lorenzo E. Anderson, died at St. John's Hospital early today after an illness of several months, due to an inflammation of the liver. She was 59 years old. Her husband died in Milwaukee last June after a heart attack.

Mrs. Anderson has lived since his death at 4831 Lindell boulevard. A son and four daughters survive. They are Oliver J. Anderson, Mrs. Robert Groves of Webster Groves, Mrs. Edward L. Bakewell, Mrs. James C. Smith, and Sister Mary Lorenzo of Chicago.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Anderson purchased 23½ acres on Denny road, a short distance north of Manchester road, on which she proposed to build a home. An architect has been drawing plans for the residence.

Mrs. Anderson was an executor and sole heir to the estate of her husband, which included $34,600 in personal property and a stock exchange seat valued at $130,000. Before her marriage she was Miss Viola Glavin, daughter of a noted organist and composer of St. Louis.

New Films

PICTURES like "The Half Way Girl," should be encouraged, even if half way girls themselves should not. In this film, shown at the New Grand Central and Kings, the producers struck the best movie story. On a bright, glamorous road at Singapore the son of a British official and a stranded showgirl start out together. The British official objects on his son's account and the villainous hotel manager on the girl's account, but flees for them. There is a good ship Mandalay and Penang for a port. Paddies chuckin' China just across the bay. It's a fine brave tale. However, something ought to be said on the subject of half way girls. In the picture Doris Kenyon declares: "I'm only a half way girl. Not bad. Not good." She strives to be that, but fails utterly. With every facility for being neither bad nor good and thus creating a new type of movie heroine, Doris succeeds in being just another good girl. If she could not be a half way girl, what chance has a mere flapper? This picture should have a thoroughly discouraging moral to some of the bobbed-heads in the tenth row last night who looked as if they were trying hard to be at least sixteenth of the way girls. The Conley-Silverman orchestra puts on a bang-up specialty at the Grand Central.

Cohanese.

WHEN they decided to put George M. Cohan's "Seven Keys to Baldpate" in the movies without George M. Cohan or George M. Cohan's dialogue someone pulled a boner. It was "Seven Keys to Baldpate." The picture at the Missouri this week is a bright, entertaining little thing on its own merits, but not Cohan. At best it is only Cohanese. A great many people, however, feel that they cannot bear anything thoroughly Cohan. These will enjoy the diluted foolishness of the movieized "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Douglas McLean as the author who has to write a novel in 24 hours—nobody knows why authors have to write that fast, but some of them do it. Judging by their books—does excellent light comedy work. Edith Roberts is the publisher's daughter who won't marry Lou until the book is finished. Most any man would write a book to get her. She's a peach.

Holding a Husband.

The husband in "Everyman's Wife" hadn't tried to find his wife's cat in the yard of a pretty feminine neighbor, all would have been well. But he did, and it turned out to be another cat, and his wife got cat and thought she had to win him back. She goes to a divorcee friend, who, according to the subtitle writer, knew all about men, and is advised to give him tit-for-tat. What would he know about holding a husband isn't quite clear, but her advice works out all right. Elaine Hammerstein as the wife fights with another man until Herbert Rawlinson, the husband, decides he had better do some intensive love making at home. She holds him satisfactorily for feet and feet of film. But the picture is incomplete. It doesn't show what happened to the cat. Wives who have husbands that need holding may view this demonstration at the Delmonico all week, along with a revival of "Caul de Mille's more or less popular pictures; a different one each day.

Cheating Papis.

"EXCHANGE OF WIVES"

Low's State offers the suggestion that if you are tired of your wife, try your next door neighbor's. While you are playing around with her, likely as not her husband will be glad to play with your wife. It is pathetic to see good players like Lew Cody and Creighton Hale, Renee Adoree and Eleanor Boardman wasting their time as they do in this picture. In any play suited to his talent, Cody could break up a dozen homes while he is coming to the conclusion, in this one that perhaps your own wife is nicer, after all. "Exchange of Wives" is no show to take the children to, and unless their parents are terribly bored with one another they'd just as well stay at home, also.

Big Game in the Arctic.

THE American is showing this week a motion picture which for merit is the best in town, but which is apt to have a rather limited appeal. Students of natural history and children who like animals will revel in H. A. Snow's "Hunting Big Game in the Arctic." It is ballooned as being full of thrills, an innocent deception considered necessary, we suppose, because the picture must compete with cheating papis and hot mamas on other screens. The fight with the whale was quite tame and the capture of the polar bear was accomplished only after he had been chased into open water. This picture's real value is in the hundred or more delightful camera studies of arctic animals in their natural habitat and the majesty of austere landscape. H. A. Snow, himself, talks about it at every performance and boasts justifiedly of photographing "everything a walrus or a polar bear ever did in their lives." Tinting and arrangement of the story is splendidly done. An interesting sidelight on contemporary history appears through the discovery by the Snow party of the bones of the explorers who went with Stefansson into the Arctic in 1914. Their last camp was found on Herald Island—a rifle, a pair of binoculars, a little stove and the bones under the ruins of a tent. It is a touching and impressive portion of Snow's pictured account. For entertainment of the worth while sort "Hunting Big Game in the Arctic" ranks high.

WISCONSIN TO SEEK TO RETAIN BEGGS WILL

Filing of Document in Florida to Be Opposed by District Attorney of Milwaukee.

When the will of John I. Beggs, wealthy public utility magnate, who died Oct. 17 in Milwaukee, is offered for probate at his legal residence in Fort Pierce, Fla., the State of Wisconsin will enter objections.

At Milwaukee today, District Attorney Wengert said: "We shall take steps to compel the executors to file the will in Wisconsin which was the real home of Mr. Beggs, and where his fortune was made. I have reason to believe the will was drawn in Milwaukee, and the attempt to establish the Florida residence is simply to keep Wisconsin from receiving $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 inheritance tax."

May Seek Injunction.
Wengert's statement was made after he had conferred with Attorney-General Ekern. If the objection to the jurisdiction of the Florida Probate Court is sustained, Wengert said he probably would seek an injunction prohibiting the use into Federal Court.

The will, disposing of an estate estimated at $30,000,000 is expected to be filed about Wednesday. Associates say Beggs established the legal residence in Florida because that State had no inheritance tax.

Federal inheritance taxes will apply on the estate. The tax is levied in graduated increases from 1 per cent up to and including $50,000 to 40 per cent in excess of $10,000,000.

State Tax in Wisconsin.
The Wisconsin State inheritance tax, after minor exemptions, is 2 per cent for the first $25,000 and ranges upward to 8 per cent for that portion of the estate which exceeds $400,000. These figures are based on the assumption that the estate is left to lineal descendants.

The inheritance tax of Missouri, of which Beggs was formerly a resident, provides for a tax on amounts left to lineal heirs of 1 per cent on amounts up to $20,000 and increases gradually to 5 per cent on all amounts in excess of $400,000.

The will names his son-in-law, Richard McCulloch, former president of the United Railways; his attorney, Lawrence J. McKelvey, Milwaukee, and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. as executors. McCulloch, Otwell and Isaac H. Orr, president of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., are now in Fort Pierce arranging to file the will.

It is understood that Beggs intended to leave his estate in trust to provide his daughter, Mrs. McCulloch, the income from it for life. Further provision is made for the estate to pass ultimately to the three McCulloch children, John L., 16 years old; Robert, 14, and Mary Sue, 12.

Beggs' only other relatives are a sister in Media, Pa., and a half-sister in Hermosa Beach, Cal.

WIDOW HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Detectives Report They Bought Whisky From Her.

Mrs. Catherine Marsh, a widow, of 1407 A Talmage avenue, was arrested in her home last night by Detectives Abbott and Frank, who reported they had purchased a pint of whisky from her.

The detectives said they met an intoxicated man near that address who told them there was a fight in Mrs. Marsh's home, where liquor was being sold, and that they went to the door and Mrs. Marsh sold them liquor. They also reported finding two men in the kitchen drinking beer, and that they found 92 bottles of beer and a gallon of whisky in the house.

Sixteen men, from other cities, received similar medals, while 500 were awarded silver medals for 25 years of active service.

Waldeck was born in Germany in 1854 and came here in 1888, opening a small meat market on Broadway near Chouteau avenue, in the old French Market district. He lives at 2101 Sidney street.

INGROWN NAIL
Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

EACH RADIATOR AN INDEPENDENT STEAM HEATING PLANT

Clow Gasteam Radiators supply steam heat, when and where you want it. They burn gas—the economical fuel, and burn it only as you need the heat. All you have to do is turn a valve and light. You light as many radiators, or as few, as you need and light them only as you need them.

The heat they furnish is steam heat, even and steady, free from ups and downs. An Automatic Regulator controls the supply of gas to the burners, so that the steam pressure stays constant regardless of outside temperatures.

Also, they are free from the worry, attention, dirt and unpleasant odors of small heating units.

Write or telephone

Clow Gasteam Heating Systems are ideal for year 'round heating. There is no cost for water-piping. All you need is a gas connection. Write for information, or send for a salesman to make a survey of your requirements.

FRANK KING, RIVER PILOT SINCE '76, DIES

Captain Dies of Paralysis After Collapsing at Wheel of the "Erastus Wells."

Collapses at the wheel of the Erastus Wells last Friday closed the career of Capt. Frank King, 67 years old, who had been a captain and pilot of Mississippi River steamboats since 1876. He died yesterday of paralysis.

When Frank King was 18 years old, 51 years ago, he became a cub pilot under his father, Capt. John King, who was a pilot on the Upper Mississippi all his life. Two years later the youth was licensed and began piloting the "Duquesne" of the Northern Line.
After 14 years with this concern and the Davison Line, also operating between St. Louis and St. Paul, he entered the service of the Eagle Packet Co., 35 years ago. He served as pilot north of St. Louis and also was captain of the "Peoria" running between St. Louis and Peoria, Ill.

In 1910 he was captain of the "G. W. Hill," owned by Capt. Hill of Alton, in the St. Louis-Calhoun County traffic. In January, 1917, the Eagle Packet Company gave a banquet for him on the steamer "Alton," of which he was a pilot, in celebration of his 56th birthday and the 28th anniversary of his service with the company.

For the last few years he had piloted the city harbor boat. His health had been failing for eighteen months, culminating in the stroke Friday. He never regained consciousness.
He resided at 5335 Ridge avenue. A brother, John King, is a retired pilot, and a son, Kelly King, is a pilot. He is survived also by his widow, three daughters, another son, and two sisters. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

RAILROAD MAN'S HEART
Beat Makes Bed Shake
Charles Green, a railroad man, was troubled for years with gas fermentation of food and was dirty and bloated. His heart beat so laboriously that his bed seemed to shake. Finally he tried the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. (Known as Adierika) and this helped him.
Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleaning with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as sold under the name of Adierika. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.
Whenever you eat too much heavy food, let Adierika REMOVE the undigested surplus and leave you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adierika brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble.
What Doctors Say
Dr. G. Eggers reports Adierika is the best medicine he has used in 37 years.
Dr. W. H. Barnhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adierika. Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for 60 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adierika.
Dr. E. Langlois prescribes Adierika regularly with GOOD effect.
J. E. Puckett writes: "After using Adierika I feel better than for 20 years. AWFUL impurities were eliminated from my system."
Adierika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and quick action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere. In St. Louis by Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and other leading druggists.

You can double the value of your smile

This New Way Gives "Off-Color" Teeth Dazzling Whiteness Quickly and Gums a Healthy Coral Tint to Contrast Them

... Accept 10-day tube to try. See what happens as film coats go from your teeth

DON'T permit off-color teeth to mar your smile. Study attractive people, men or women. Note the tremendous part gleaming, clear teeth play.
And don't believe your teeth are naturally dull or colorless. In a few days you can work a transformation in your mouth.
Modern science has found a new way in tooth and gum care. A way different from any you have ever known. Just send the coupon for a 10-day test.
Simply a film
Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film, a viscous coat that covers them.
That film is an enemy to your teeth—and your gums. You must remove it.
It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs discolorations and gives your teeth a cloudy "off-color" look. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, with tartar are a chief cause of pyorrhea and gum disorders.
Tooth troubles and gum troubles now are largely traced to that film.
Old-time methods fail in successfully combating it. That's why, regardless of the care you take now, your teeth remain dull and unattractive—your gums soft and toneless.
New methods remove it and firm the gums
Now, in a new type dentifrice called Pepsodent, dental science has discovered effective combatants. Their action is to curdle the film and remove it, then to firm the gums.
What you see when that film is removed—the whiteness of your teeth—will amaze you.
A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt.

NICARAGUAN FORT SEIZED; REBEL CONTROLS CAPITAL

Troops Under Conservative General Attack Constabulary Commanded by American—11 Killed.

By the Associated Press. MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 26.—A coup d'état has been carried out here.

General Emiliano Chamorro, without opposition yesterday captured the fortress of La Loma and at last accounts was in control of the capital.

The movement of Chamorro was made as a protest against inclusion of liberals in the cabinet of President Solerzano, to which Chamorro who is the conservative leader and his adherence long had objected.

The troops of the garrison joined in the coup. There was fighting throughout Sunday, in which the troops attacked the constabulary commanded by the American Major Carter. In the melee both sides suffered casualties.

There was a fight at the La Loma fortress, between the troops and constabulary in which one of the constabulary was wounded but a more serious affair occurred in the market place where two of the constabulary were killed and nine of the troops were killed and 13 wounded.

During the afternoon Commissioner President Adolfo Diaz, obtained from President Solerzano a promise that he would accede to the demands of General Chamorro in order to prevent further bloodshed. Throughout Sunday night much apprehension prevailed among the populace.

The streets of the city were deserted except by the soldiers.

FOUR GIRLS DISCUSS IDEAL

WOMAN IN PULPIT ADDRESS

Supplement to Pastor's Sermon on 'Modern Girl at Bowman Methodist Church.'

Four girls last night occupied the pulpit of the Bowman Methodist Church, Carter and Ashland avenues, giving their conceptions of 'My Ideal Woman,' after the pastor, the Rev. John W. Kessitt, had spoken 'On the Girl of Today.'

Miss Elaine Hagerty, 17 years old, described her ideal as a woman of intelligence and broad-mindedness, with whom family and home come before everything else.

'All the world could copy from my ideal, who is filling her corner as best she can, loving and understanding all mankind,' said Miss Thelma Saams, who is 19.

The woman who is true to herself and her church was selected by 16-year-old Ruth Hagerty, who said:

'A woman at 40 is the result of her early training. If she learns the fundamental truths while a girl she will be an ideal woman.'

HOOVER SAYS PRESENT SPIRIT COULD HAVE AVERTED WAR

Secretary, in Address at Y. M. C. A. Session, Comments on Willingness of Europe to Adjust Differences.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Had the willingness to adjust differences now being shown in Europe been exercised in July, 1914, the annals of the past decade need not have been written in blood, Secretary Hoover said in an address here today to the International Young Men's Christian Association convention.

If a referendum could be taken on the earth's population to discover its dearest wish, the Secretary said, the desire for assurance of peace would win overwhelming victory. The Secretary urged the creation of agencies for strengthening the moral and spiritual fiber 'parallel with our material agencies of progress.'

'We have not lost the dominance of the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, of neighborly service, of love of family and home, of faith in God, or of the purposes of our country,' he said. 'There is time to act if enough of us care, but not too long and along bypaths.'

SAYS STREET CAR HIT HIM

William Winter, 41 years old, of 1113 Hickory street, a painter, who was found on the sidewalk near Twelfth street and Park avenue early yesterday and taken to city hospital, told police he had been struck by a street car and had dragged himself to the walk. Doctors said his skull was fractured and his condition serious.

Winter said the car did not stop after striking him. Police were unable to find any street car crew who knew of the accident.

APPEALS OF DONALD W. ROSS ARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

Cases Include Two Convictions for Embezzling Funds of Defunct Night and Day Bank.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 26.—Details of the looting of the Night and Day Bank of St. Louis, which have been before the State Supreme Court since last June, were heard by Division Number 2 of the court today, when two appeals of Donald W. Ross, former Deputy State Finance Commissioner, in charge of liquidation of the bank's funds from two convictions on charges of embezzling the bank's funds were argued and submitted to the court.

Ross was alleged to have taken approximately $215,000 out of the funds of the bank, from what remained after the failure of the bank in January, 1922, through the alleged manipulations of Arthur O. Meininger, cashier. Meininger's share was placed at approximately $754,000.

Five prison sentences have been imposed on the two men in various trials, but thus far no one connected with the looting of the bank has spent a day in the penitentiary. Meininger, convicted three times, obtained a reversal in Supreme Court of a five-year sentence on an embezzlement charge on a technicality, and was acquitted on retrial. Meininger's appeals from two sentences of five and three years, for assenting to acceptance of deposits when he knew the bank was in a failing condition, are dockets for Thursday in Division Number 2.

The appeals of Ross, heard today, are from two sentences of five years each, on two convictions of embezzlement, and a sentence of embezzlement of $28,250 of Night and Day funds and the other embezzlement count alleged theft of $324,247 of the bank's funds. Decision of the court in the two Ross cases probably will be handed down by the end of December.

TWO PLANES COLLIDE IN AIR AND FALL INTO THE SEA

One Pilot Killed and Other Is Saved in Accident in California.

By the Associated Press. SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 26.—Lieutenant Commander Ralph Wood, commander of a squadron, number one of the aircraft squadrons of the battlefleet, and two of his fellow pilots have returned here with accounts of the manner in which Lieut. Edgar L. Adams, 21 years old, was killed Saturday, near Ocean Side as the squadron was winging its way toward San Francisco for flights on Navy day.

Lieut. Adams met instant death when his plane and that piloted by Lieut. L. C. Stevens crashed in mid-air.

The planes fell into the sea near shore, alighting in about 14 feet of water. Lieut. Stevens and a chief machinist's mate, Mills, who was with him, swam ashore and were reported not to have been injured severely. Lieut. Adams, however, was found dead in the seat of his plane, with his neck broken. The machines were flying at an elevation of about 500 feet and were going 110 miles an hour.

Seven of the planes continued toward San Francisco.

WORK ON RESURFACING OF CLAYTON ROAD BEGUN

County Judge Preiss Says Improvement Will Be Completed Dec. 1

—City to Expend $15,000. The resurfacing of Clayton road, between Pennsylvania avenue and North and South roads, delayed because of the failure of city and county to agree on the cost of the work, has been begun and will be completed by Dec. 1, County Judge Preiss announced today.

The stretch was torn up by workmen in installing the city water main from the Missouri river plant.

At a recent conference the city agreed to pay the county $15,000 for the work. The project will cost $16,800, according to Highway Engineer Jahonsky.

CHASES THIEF FROM ROOM

Police Join Man in Night-Shirt in His Pursuit.

Police of Dayton Station, at Jefferson avenue and Dayton street, heard cries of 'Stop, Thief,' at 2:30 a. m. today and ran to the street. There they saw their neighbor, Benjamin Hoff, of 2610 Dayton street, in nothing but a night-shirt, chasing a man north on Jefferson.

The man disappeared in an alley and escaped in spite of the policemen, and Hoff returned with cold, bare feet to explain that he awoke to find the man in his bedroom. His watch and $2 cash were gone.

FIVE AUTOS AND CAR CRASH

Girl Suffers Lacerated Scalp in Collision With a Trolley.

Five automobiles and a street car figured in a collision at 8:15 p. m. yesterday at 8221 North Broadway, but only one person was injured, Miss Ruth Pouch of 12118 A. Noble street suffering a lacerated scalp.

The accident occurred when four automobiles, which had stopped suddenly, were struck by a fifth, which, in turn, was struck by a street car.

Robbed of $63 on Leaving Saloon. Harry Murphy, 25 years old, of 2720 North Tenth street, called a policeman to his home last night to report that the night before he was assaulted and robbed of $63 cash. He left a saloon at Ninth and Market streets and was followed to an alley near Tenth street by a man who knocked him down and took his purse, he said. He awoke in a hallway on Market street with a four-inch knife wound in his right thigh, he said, and rode home on a street car.

GRAVOIS ROAD BRIDGE AT FENTON DEDICATED

Several Thousand Spectators at Ceremony Marking Project's Completion.

Seventeen to 20 miles of hard-surfaced road are being added to Missouri's network of good roads weekly, Sam Rudder, division State highway engineer, said in an address yesterday at the dedication of the new State bridge for Gravois road over the Meramec River.

The State has spent $600,000 in St. Louis County, out of its $60,000,000 road bond issue. Rudder added that the expenditure of the county combined with this for main highways brings the total to $1,763,000.

Other speakers were State Senator Ralph, who declared that St. Louis County had given the impetus to the State's good roads movement; A. E. L. Gardner, Ralph's predecessor in the State Senate; County Judge Bobbing, Probate Judge Hodgson, leader of the Grank Trail movement, and J. H. Hiler, an attorney. Several dignitaries who were expected did not taken part.

There were several thousand spectators at the dedication, including organizations from the city and county. There was an automobile parade to the bridge from the Fenton Farmers' Agricultural Club, headed by Sheriff Williams and Deputy Sheriff James Stevin of Fenton. Miss Irene Koch of Fenton, attired in the national colors, was prepared to christen the bridge but the christening bottle disappeared somewhat mysteriously.

Fenton Decorated.

The town of Fenton was decorated with bunting. A barbecue and dance at the farmers' club lasted through the late afternoon and evening. The dedication was to have taken place Oct. 17, but complaints by the Musicians' Union over the employment of nonunion bands caused a delay and the employment for yesterday of union musicians.

MAPLEWOOD SUES TONY FOLEY AND OTHERS FOR $20,000

Seeks to Recover Funds Which Komar Is Alleged to Have Lost at Gambling.

The city of Maplewood today filed suit at Clayton to recover $20,000 of its funds which George Komar, former city clerk, is alleged to have embezzled and lost in various gambling establishments.

Defendants who are alleged to have obtained possession of the money from Komar by various games of chance are named as Anthony Foley, John Connor, 'Burr' McGuire and George Furry. The first three are said to be connected with St. Louis County establishments, and Furry with one in Jefferson County.

The petition states that Komar at various times lost large sums of money, the property of the city of Maplewood, at gambling establishments. The exact sum lost is stated to be not known, but in excess of $20,000.

TALKED IN HIS SLEEP; MUST DIE

German Betrayed Himself as Murderer.

By the Associated Press. DUESSELDORF, Oct. 26.—Talking in his sleep promises to prove fatal to a criminal named Schramm, who unconsciously betrayed himself to his cellmate. Despite Schramm's later denials in court, his cellmate told of nocturnal babblings in which Schramm described trying a rope about a man's neck and throwing him into the Rhine.

The body of such a victim was found last year, weighted as described, and the court condemned Schramm to death.

17 PERSONS KILLED IN ALABAMA TORNADO

Many Injured and Heavy Property Loss Is Suffered in Three Counties.

By the Associated Press. TROY, Ala., Oct. 26.—A tornado in Pike, Barbour and Crenshaw Counties yesterday killed 17 persons, injured many, rendered homeless hundreds and left thousands of dollars' damage in its wake.

There are eight dead in Pike County and seven in Barbour. Of the eight who lost their lives in Pike County, five were children of the same family, while their father and mother were seriously injured and are not expected to live.

Two other persons of the same family name, Knight, also were injured. In Barbour County, six negroes were killed.

Residents near the paths of the tornado were aroused by the roar of the twister and the cries of the injured. They rushed into the shelter of trees and buildings in a deluge of rain.

atly available to the relief workers who went into the field.

The tornado seemed to have its origin in Crenshaw County, where it swept down with tremendous force, tearing its way across the breadth of Pike County and on eastward into Barbour, where it appears to have spent its force.

Near Luverne, county seat of Crenshaw, two were killed, both of them aged, and one past 100 years.

An emergency call to Troy sent doctors, ambulances and nurses and soon scores of injured were being brought into the city, taxing hospital capacity to its utmost.

The tornado came at the conclusion of a period of intense heat and threatening weather of Saturday. It was followed by a severe electrical storm.

Kotchoro, who was the first to detect the odor of gas, made his way to a door, where he shouted for help. Policemen carried the family from the house.

STRIKE OF UNION PAINTERS IN CITY WORK SETTLED

City Officials Said to Have Agreed Not to Let Any More Contractors to Open Shops.

The strike of union painters employed on city work, which was called last month when a contract to redecorate City Courtroom, No. 1 was awarded to the Eureka Shops, an open-shop concern, has been settled. It was announced today.

The strike involved more than 100 painters, 20 of whom are regularly employed at city institutions. The others are employed by union painting contractors doing city work, including the painting of the exterior of the City Hall.

The union men were ordered back to work upon the assurance of city officials that future painting contracts would be awarded painting concerns employing only union workmen, according to L. M. Rafferty, secretary of the Painter's District Council.

'Our council was assured that no future contracts would be awarded to the Eureka Shops, an only open-shop concern of the kind here,' Rafferty said.

COTTON BREAKS $6 ON CROP FORECAST

Government Estimate Raised 467,000 Bales to Total of 15,226,000 Bales.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Publication of the government crop report was preceded by nervous and irregular fluctuations in the cotton market here today. The opening was fairly steady at a decline of 4 to 14 points under overnight hedge selling by the south and liquidation. Although Liverpool was better than due, there also were reports of bad weather in the belt. December sold off to 21.10c at the start and back to the low price touched on last bureau day, but a good deal of covering developed at this figure and prices rallied 10 or 12 points from the lowest before the end of the first hour. Heavy killing frosts were reported in Oklahoma over the western end, while there were reports of less general rains in Eastern and Central sections of the belt with heavy storms in Alabama.

The government crop forecast of 15,226,000 bales was far above the average of recent private figures and was followed by heavy general selling in the cotton market here. Prices had eased off before the report was issued, but broke another point immediately after its publication with December declining to 19.96c and January to 19.22c or 127 to 129 points net lower. Covering and trade buying at these figures led to rallies of 20 or 30 points around midday, but the market was very nervous and unsettled. The report showed the 1931-32 crop at 15,226,000 bales, which had sold up from 19,22c to 19.51c, eased off to 19.34c with active months ruling about 112 to 122 points lower at 2 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—A probable cotton production of about 15,226,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, the department of agriculture announced today, is indicated by reports as of Oct. 18 on condition, abandonment, probable yields and ginnings. A probable crop of 14,759,000 bales was indicated two weeks ago. Last year's crop totaled 13,627,336 bales. The probable crop from Oct. 15 indications is placed at 164.7 pounds of lint cotton per harvested acre, compared with 132.6 pounds on Oct. 1, this year, and 137.4 pounds the final yield last year. An abandonment of cotton acreage since July 23 of 4.8 per cent, leaving about 44,231,000 acres for harvest this year, is indicated by preliminary reports. That compares with an estimated abandonment from June 23 to the close of the season of 1931 of 19,224 of 4.1 per cent, to 1932 and a 10-year average of 3.3 per cent.

THE DIVINE LADY

"The Divine Lady" is the story, partly-fiction but largely based on fact, of Lady Emma Hamilton, the Englishwoman of lovely birth who became one of the best known and most talked about women in all Europe.

CHAPTER FIFTY-TWO.

SHE gave him her hand, and drew him up, and they wandered from the lurid patch of light flung by the windows out under the cool green boughs, moonlight-silvered with gulfs of dark and light beneath them along the garden paths, and the first faint rustle of a bird disturbed in the boughs by their passage. Quiet, cool, quiet and great peace, and sweetness like the breath of a goddess about them in dark night. Before very long it would be dawn and the wan edge of light under the secret of Montebello, dreaming in the warm darkness.

"You're disturbed and I know it," she said very softly at last. "There's nothing passes in your mind but I read it like a book. What is it? A letter from Keith?"

"No, not Keith. At least I have only read one letter. It's from her, Emma."

"Her?" He could hear the quick-taken breath, the apprehension in her voice. Surely that should have revealed, surely that answer to them. There was no longer talk of the feminine tria juncta in uno—three joined in one—where Lady Nelson was concerned. Emma had grown to hate her very name. She was a malignant presence lurking in the dark ready to strike. And who was she after all? There was nothing in Emma's past to imbue her with any respect for a mere church ceremony, except in her own case, and Sir William's, which naturally did not affect any other.

"What does she want?" she asked at length, as a low hanging branch shook a little spray of sweet-scented dew into her hair. Nelson gathered the offending blossom and laid it there all fresh and cool, against the glowing warmth.

"She wants to join me here or at Naples."

"Do you want her?" The voice was cold and distant—with suppressed pain, he thought.

"You know," he said, and that was all. She turned upon him passionately in the scented dark.

"Nelson, if she came I should die—I should die. She would never understand. How could she? She would come between us. You would never love me any more."

"I shall love you until I die. You are my breath, my life, my soul to me. My own heart's angel."

"But you love her best."

"Don't ask me—I don't know what to do," he said, hoarsely. "There are things best left unsaid. I love you. I never knew what love was until I saw you—until this minute, I think."

They had drawn near the fountain of the sea nymph, half hidden in maidenhair and violets. Its soft warble was like the voice of quiet. A few crystal moonlight drops fell from the jar she held in her cold marble hand. How many lovers had her down-dropped eyes seen by her waters in the warm Sicilian nights? But never a pair like these—never before and never again. It was too much for him. Everything in nature conspired to help her, and fought against his resolution. The world faded before him, and only her face remained star-sweet against the dark.

Perhaps he would never get home, never again see his own Emma? Had he not done enough, talked enough by land and sea to earn his reward? Peace and love. He asked no more; and both, both were passionately within reach at the moment.

He forgot the world, and dream away their lives in some such paradise as this forgotten and far setting. He put his arm about her, and his face on the warm whiteness of her breast. His cruel, the unshaken thirst was upon him.

The marble nymph was silent in her green gloom, only the water dripping, dripping eternally from her jar, and a white cloud veiling the moon.

He that is without sin among you—

They were together until the faint gold rim showed beyond the sea and the mountain rose coldly white against the dawn. The revelers were still pushing the money frantically about when they returned, but Sir William had vanished, exhausted, and the air of the great room was foul and close.

Next day Nelson wrote to Fanny: "You would by February have seen how unpleasant it would have been had you followed any advice which carried you from England to a wandering sailor. I could, if you had come, only have struck my flag and carried you back again, for it would have been impossible to set up an establishment at either Naples or Palermo."

The die was cast. He had chosen with Faust: "Evil be thou my good." Good Emma was his heart's cry, against Fanny and the dark-made laws that love mocks at. But here again he saved his conscience.

LADY HAMILTON AS CIRCE

science. Fanny should have all but love, every respect, every honor due from man to wife should be hers. All but the one thing she craved. Yet Nelson might have been moved had he seen the tears falling like rain over that letter. Even Emma might have pitied.

His other letters afforded him small comfort also. Troubridge, his honest true-hearted friend, his right-hand captain, and also gathered up his courage to write.

"Pardon me, my Lord. It is my sincere esteem for you that makes me mention it. I know you can have no pleasure sitting up all night at cards; why, then, sacrifice your health, comfort, purse, ease, everything, to the customs of a country where your stay cannot be long?"

Your Lordship is a stranger to half that happens, or the talk it occasions; if you knew what your friends feel for you, I am sure you would cut all the nocturnal parties. The gambling of the people of Palermo is openly talked of everywhere. I beseech your Lordship leave off. I wish my pen could tell you my feelings. Lady H's character will suffer, nothing can prevent people from talking. A gambling woman in the eye of an Englishman is lost. You will be surprised when I tell you I hear in all companies the sums won and lost on a card in Sir William's house. It furnishes matter for a letter constantly both to Minorca, Naples, Messina, etc., and finally England. I trust your Lordship will pardon me; it is the sincere esteem I have for you that makes me risk your displeasure."

But Nelson could not pardon in the cold searching dawn after that enchanted night. Something sickened and revolted within him—that others should watch, should guess. He flung it furiously down and would not answer it. His feeling to Troubridge was never the same again.

The Admiralty in London also was growing uneasily suspicious. They much disliked his journey in the Foudroyant with the Hamiltons to Naples to punish the Neapolitan King's rebels and pave the way for setting him on his throne again. They could not be made to sympathize with Nelson's execution of Caracciolo, the traitor Neapolitan Admiral, with Emma, the Queen's emissary, in the background suspiciously all the time. They could not be made to comprehend that it was a British Admiral's business to punish a foreign King's traitors for him. They could not be made to comprehend the advantages of a beautiful ambassador's presence on board a British man-of-war in war-time, more especially as the scandal concerning her grew in volume daily.

Nor could the unsympathetic Admiralty be made to comprehend why in such stirring times it was necessary that Nelson should linger at Palermo. And furthermore, the Foreign Office began to bestir itself and ominous rumblings were heard. Their Ambassador appeared to be devoting himself far more to Neapolitan interests than to British. If Sir William Hamilton had grown so old that he was in the hands of his wife—and such a wife—it was certainly time that inquiry should be made in that little paradise of Palermo.

Nelson sank lower and lower into depression of mind and body. The joyous wellspring of energy was dried up in him. He was ill—ill at ease. He drew up a codicil to his will that should tell all the world, if he fell, how he idealized this woman who was the world's butt.

"I give and bequeath to my dear friend Emma Hamilton, wife of the Right Hon. Sir William Hamilton, a nearly round box set with diamonds said to have been sent me by the mother of the Grand Signior, which I request she will accept and never part from as a token of regard and respect for her very eminent virtues (for she, the said Emma Hamilton, possesses them all to such a degree that it would be doing her injustice was any particular one to be mentioned) from her faithful and affectionate friend."

No, he would not be ashamed. He would glory in their love. And she fed every flame with the oil of her own passionate nature. He detested the French, therefore she must loathe them more. He saw her kiss a Turkish sword engraved with valiant French blood, and did not rebuke her. She urged him on in what she believed to be the cause of God and her Queen, in that vindictive hatred of the enemy which, with her, was the only accusation that made itself dare hurl against Nelson.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Reinforcements.

Adhesive tape comes in very handy to mend imperfections in baby's stock pants, if done before the tear becomes too long.

Stops Hardening.

If the icing for the cake starts to harden before you have finished spreading, set the bowl or pan in a larger pan of hot water until you are through.

More Strength.

White of egg is very strengthening to invalids and may be beaten slightly and added to many foods without the invalid suspecting it. Out meal and other cereals can easily disguise white of egg.

Less Laundry.

A piece of clean newspaper placed each day on the warming shelf of the black range will eliminate that black mark on your table linen caused by the bottom of your heated dishes.

Scorch Stains Gone.

Wet the scorched article with cold water and lay flat on the grass in the full sunshine. It may have to be wet and dried several times before the stains are entirely gone. This method will not harm the fabric.

Peanut Butter Soup.

Boil one cup of peanut butter with a little hot milk and then add gradually enough boiling water to make one quart of liquid in all. Season with a bay leaf, salt, celery salt and paprika to taste and one tablespoon of grated onion. Cook for six minutes in the upper part of double boiler and thicken with a tablespoon of cornstarch moistened with a little cold milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until smooth, strain through a fine sieve and serve at once with croutons.

Self-distrust is the cause of most of our failures. In the assurance of strength there is strength, and they are the weakest, however strong, who have no faith in themselves or their powers.

Some World Famous Ladies---By Bill Brinkley

YOU know them all—these famous ladies. Their names are familiar even in Tibet and Timbuctoo. Most folks have met up with at least three or four of them while they were jogging along the road wishing the world well.

But they have found that one or two of them, and maybe more, won't bear wishing well! And one or two of them that you are just as well never seeing at all.

One tall, slithery lady who writhes along with a mad face, with finger nails and shoes unbelievably pointed, is among them. She's one you will be just as happy not knowing. She has a strange pet as a least—the very famous and notorious Green-Eyed Monster—no less!

You will have heard of him, I reckon. His and the lady's ballet eyes match so that you cannot tell one's from the other's.

There's another lady that worries some of the men a lot—especially a young lad just over from the mountains of Norway, where there are not so many girls whose skins are not their own, and that "own" beautiful. And that's young "Miss Make-up." Oh, VERY young sometimes. When you come upon her at a street corner or in a hotel doorway too

Ruddy Prepares for Winter

His life full long will be and good
Who always eats the proper food.

—Old Mother Nature.

IN his interest in getting acquainted with Ruddy the Red-backed Mouse over in the Green Forest, Peter Rabbit had forgotten that he had started out to find out how many of his friends and neighbors really looked ahead and prepared for the winter. He was reminded of it one day when he had stopped to pass the time of day with Ruddy.

"Can't stop to talk this morning, Peter," declared Ruddy.

"Why not?" demanded Peter.

"Too busy," replied Ruddy.

"Getting ready for winter," replied Ruddy.

"You getting ready for winter? How do you get ready for winter?" inquired Peter.

"The same way that all thrifty people do," retorted Ruddy, "by laying up a supply of food."

"Not all folks lay up food in the same way," said Peter. "I've found that out."

"Of course they do," retorted Ruddy. "They all store it away where they can get it."

"What about Johnny Chuck?" demanded Peter. "What about Buster Bear?"

"Oh, they don't store up food," said Ruddy.

"Huh!" exclaimed Peter. "If you should see Johnny Chuck now I guess you'd think he stores up food. He's got so much of it stored under that skin of his that I hardly dare go near him for fear he may blow up. Buster Bear's storing food the same way. He spends all his time eating."

Ruddy sat up and scratched his nose thoughtfully. "I never thought of that before," said he.

"What is it you never thought of?" demanded Peter.

"I never thought of that being one way of laying up food," said Ruddy. "I'd hate to lay up food for all winter that way. But then, of course, those fellows sleep most of the winter."

"I suppose that means that you don't sleep," said Peter.

"No more than I do in summer," replied Ruddy. "I sleep when I'm sleepy, that's all."

"Which reminds me," said Peter, "that you seem to be out in the daytime a great deal of the time."

"Certainly," said Ruddy. "Why not? I know there are some members of the Mouse family who seldom come out until after dark. Daylight or darkness makes no difference to me. I come out when I feel like it. I'm just as much at home in the light of day as I am in the darkness of night. In fact, I rather like daylight. At this season of the year when one must get ready for winter it is very handy to feel equally at home in daylight or darkness."

"Where do you put your supplies for winter?" inquired Peter very bluntly.

Ruddy chuckled aloud. It was a pleasant, squeaky little chuckle.

"My, such questions as some people can ask!" he exclaimed. "If you really want to know, Peter, I'm going to tell you. I put them where they will do me the most good when I need them."

"Oh," said Peter and grinned.

"If I want to find them I suppose that is where I must look for them."

"Exactly," replied Ruddy. "Like my house, my storehouse is my own secret. Now I've stood here talking to you too long already. I must store some of these beechnuts, and there are some seeds that I must gather while I can get them."

"But if you don't sleep all winter and are running about I don't see why it is necessary for you to lay up any stores of food," protested Peter. "I don't do it."

"That's all right," replied Ruddy. "Next winter after the first hard ice storm, when you can't get around to get anything to eat, just think of me. Peter, comfortably eating whenever I am hungry, and not having to go out in bad weather to get my food."

The Youthful Party And the Hip Flasks By LUCY LOWELL

I'VE just heard a new story about the "Younger Generation." It's a study with a hipflask in it. And a high school party that flivvered.
Preparations had been under way for ever so long, and nearly everyone in the senior class was going.
The girls were getting new dresses and some of them were going to wear real evening gowns—that's how swanky it promised to be.
They were having it at the home of the class president, whose name is Myrtle, and who is a lovely, sweet girl just like hundreds of other lovely, sweet girls all over America.

And there was going to be an orchestra and dancing and punch and all the things that make a real party.

So the big night came, and the girls put on their new dresses and the boys borrowed the family motors and took them to the party.
And it started out just as splendid and as sparkling as everybody expected.

"But along about ten o'clock,"
said the girl's father who told me
the story, "Mary and her brother came home."
"They were very quiet as they went up to their rooms, and to bed.
And the next morning they had little to say. Their mother asked about the party and they admitted that it hadn't turned out very well.
But they gave the impression that they came home because they were tired."

"It was a week later we found out the truth. It seems that early in the evening one of the boys drew a flask from his pocket and began to pass it around."

"It took Myrtle's mother just about thirty seconds to realize what was going on. First she spoke to the leader of the orchestra, and the music stopped. Then she told the crowd, very quietly but firmly, that they'd have to go. She said it was too bad that everybody must give up the evening because one had outraged hospitality as well as good taste."

"And that was that—and the end of the party!"

"Of course the youngsters were awfully offended. But when the youngsters' parents heard what had happened they began dropping in on Myrtle's mother to thank her.
She's the most popular person in our neighborhood now!"

That's the new story about the "Younger Generation" and the hip flask and the high school party that turned out to be no party after all.

Children's Stories: Household Hints

Beefsteak Pie.

Take the left-over steak and cut into small pieces, enough to make two or more cupfuls. Make a cupful and a half of brown gravy from stock in the usual way, or open a small can of tomato soup and use it for the foundation of a sauce, adding the seasoning liked and the thickening needed. When the sauce is made, put the meat
into it with a grated onion, a tablespoonful of chopped celery and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley.

Cool slightly, then fill the deep crust-lined dish and cover the top with white potatoes cut in eighth of an inch thick slices. Then add a dusting of pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, and cover with the top crust. Leave vents in the crust for the steam to pass off.
Bake until the crust is brown, from a half to three-quarters of an hour. Serve hot with one vegetable, bread and butter and a relish.

Prosperity is not without many fears and distastes, and adversity is not without comfort and hopes.
—Bacon.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Talismans.

0 If there are talismans men wear to ward all harm
away, to banish every dark despair, to brighten every day!
And some of lovely gems are wrought, some carved of shining stone, their magic powers cannot be bought in any realm or zone. But yonder go a maid and man from whom all grills depart, each has a mighty talisman to clasp against the heart. He has no fear of any ill, of any loss or pain, and so he journeys gladly still through sunshine and through rain. She knows no dread of care-to-be, no weight of present wonder days are all as brave and free as April winds that blow. He has a talisman, her love, and she has won his heart, so from all pathways where they rovegrim wreaths of pain depart.

A New Griddle.

A MAN can now have griddle cakes and still have his with
at the breakfast table with him, for there is a brand new electric griddle on the market which makes this possible. The griddle being of aluminum heats quickly and it requires no greasing so there is no smoke or odor, and the cakes will be sure to be served hot. This new utensil, therefore, has several excellent features to recommend it and will prove a favorite table equipment.

To sell THE ONE COFFEE that everyone would acknowledge as the best

Among the older coffee men it is often related how B. H. Kroger, then a young man, worked late every night —testing, blending and roasting his fine coffees.

Nowhere, they say, was there a taste
more exacting, or more expert, in selecting the delicate, more elusive values
—nowhere was there one more conscientious in his desire to sell the one coffee that everyone would acknowledge as the best.

For over 25 years
now, French Coffee
has been on sale in Kroger Stores. This fine blend is a complete fulfillment of his idea to sell the one coffee that would be recognized as the best by everybody, the minute it was tried.

For truly excellent quality, heavy body, rich aroma, absolute uniformity and freshness it is without superior—
and this means any brand at any price.

Regardless of the satisfaction you get from the brand you now drink,
you will find in French
a new, deeper gratification. You will delight in its full-bodied, fresh-roasted flavor—its fragrant, delicious aroma.

CABINET IN FRANCE FALLS; CAILLAUX IS SUMMONED

Precedent Set When President Calls in Man Who Refused to Be "Goat" Over Capital Levy.

PAINLEVE ALSO SEES DOUMERGUE

Says He Will Form New Ministry or Collaborate Heartily With Any Other Statesman.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 25.—A French Cabinet, for the second time within six months, has been wrecked on the rocks of finance.
Premier Painlevé waited on President Doumergue at the Elysee Palace this afternoon and handed him the collective and unanimous resignation of the ministry.
The immediate cause of the wreck was Finance Minister Caillaux's plan for restoration of the country's finances. His plan rejected the capital levy which the majority in the Chamber of Deputies are committed to introduce in Parliament.
Cabinet Divided.
The Cabinet itself was divided on the question. Premier Painlevé—essentially a man of the Left—favoring such a levy, while M. Caillaux opposed it.
Aware that he would be overthrown by his own friends in an open chamber fight, the Premier apparently resolved to get rid of the elements in his Cabinet objectionable to left groups, and presented the collective resignation of the Cabinet to the President at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. M. Caillaux steadfastly refused to save his life of the Cabinet by "accepting to be a scapegoat," offered to the Left groups. He argued that the other Cabinet members were jointly responsible with him; they had watched the elaboration of his plans and had supported him until now, and they must sink or swim together.
That Caillaux still is a power to be reckoned with was shown when he was summoned by President Doumergue immediately after the departure of Premier Painlevé from his resignation visit.
It was the first time in the history of the third republic that a member of a fallen Ministry other than the Premier had ever been consulted by the President of the Republic before the latter conferred with the presidents of the Senate and Chamber.
Painlevé Sees Herriot.
Painlevé began the day with an interview with former Premier Herriot, the radical Socialist leader, who holds the important post of president of the Chamber of Deputies, outlining to him the Finance Minister's Caillaux now plans and attempting to establish how the chamber was likely to resolve them.
After Painlevé's departure from the Elysee Palace the following communique was issued:
"The Cabinet Council, which in its preceding meeting had examined favorably the plan elaborated by the Minister of Finance, interrupted that decision this morning, although there had been no essential differences between the members of the ministry regarding the plan. In order for the ministry to move back to a study of the financial and parliamentary situation created by the recent construction of the parties."
It was understood that an urgent effort would be made to reconstitute a cabinet without the certainty of a vote of confidence by the Chamber of Deputies. The government unanimously decided to reject the resignation of the Finance Minister. The President, however, the presidential palace, that he would follow Doumergue's instructions whatever they might be. He would form a Cabinet, if so requested, or resign. Painlevé, however, with the other members of the Cabinet, will not be power.
Painlevé added that the decision was taken last Friday. It was withheld in order that Finance Minister Caillaux could be consulted. He declared that Caillaux resigned and was not to be power.
